DAY ULTIMATUM TO CZECHS

Beg Moscow's Help

GENEVA, Sept. 19 (AP)—Czechoslovakia was reported today to have asked Russian officials here for the Soviet Union's support against delivering over the Sudeten German area to Germany.

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Sept. 19—Reluctantly convinced that by no other means can war be avoided, the cabinets of Great Britain and France today approved the sacrifice of Czechoslovakia on the altar of peace.

Czechoslovakia will be asked to reply within 24 hours whether she will permit herself to be partly carved up in the interests of European peace.

Meeting hurriedly the moment Premier Eduard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet returned to Paris after their weekend conference in London, the French council of ministers unanimously sanctioned dismemberment of the war-born central European democracy and the outright presentation to Adolf Hitler of Czechoslovakia's purely German areas.

A few moments later the British cabinet broke up a morning-long session, with every indication that Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's dramatic "surgical operation" on Czechoslovakia had been approved in full.

It was learned the Anglo-French plan will be presented to Prague on this basis:

1—Cession of the purely Germanic areas to the Reich.

2—An international guarantee of Czechoslovakia's security, providing she abandons her alliances with France and Russia.

Other News of War Crisis on Pages 7, 10 and 11

Warning is being given to Prague that Hitler served definite notice on Chamberlain that Germany intends to march unless the wholly German areas are given to the Reich.

If Prague remains adamant, authorities said, the further threat will be implied that it is now questionable whether public opinion in Britain and France would support a European war for the purpose of maintaining allegedly unhappy Germans within the Czech state.

BOOTS, BOOTS, BOOTS—Row upon row, stiff as ramrods, faces grim with the thought of battle and death—these Czech soldiers prepare to battle the Nazi host to preserve the independence of their country. Although small, the Czechoslovakian army is considered one of the world's most efficient fighting forces.

These Five Points Czech Peace Price

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Here is an unofficial outline of the Franco-British solution of Europe's deep crisis:

1—Czech Sudeten districts which in recent elections voted 75 per cent or more for the Henlein Sudeten Grman party will be considered to have decided on union with Germany.

2—A new frontier shall be drawn to include all such districts with Hitler's Reich as far as practicable.

3—Districts which voted between 75 and 50 per cent for the Henleinists shall be grouped in autonomous areas inside Czechoslovakia.

4—Arrangements shall be made by exchange of populations to safeguard liberty of German minorities which do not wish to come under German rule; there shall be similar arrangements for Polish and Hungarian minorities.

5—The new Czech frontiers shall be guaranteed by the great powers and neighboring states, and she shall be released from her alliances with France and Russia; in other words she shall be an "independent, neutral state" like Belgium.

The proposed guaranteeing states are Britain, France, Germany, Italy, Poland, Hungary and Rumania.

F. D. R. Confers On Neutrality

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—President Roosevelt arranged conferences with State Department officials today on the neutrality law, trade treaties and the general foreign situation.

He also went over the neutrality problem with Chairman McReynolds (D.-Tenn.), of the House foreign affairs committee. McReynolds recently said he had no amendments to the act in mind for the next session of Congress, but expected some sentiment to develop for giving the President the right to apply embargoes on shipments of war materials and munitions to aggressor nations only.

Driver Hero in Auto Plunge

20 Hurt as Hub Buses Upset

Twenty persons were injured in two bus crashes today.

Fifteen were hurt, eight of them seriously, when a Boston-bound bus from New York plunged into the Hockanum River at Manchester, Ct.

Five others were hurt, one seriously, when another Boston-bound bus skidded off the highway at Berlin, also in Connecticut.

Albert Edgecomb, 29, Orchard street, Watertown, driver of the bus that plunged into the Hockanum River, did heroic rescue work despite the fact that he himself suffered a broken shoulder that paralyzed his right arm.

He broke windows, helped lift screaming, terrified passengers to safety. Besides Edgecomb, those most seriously hurt were:

Charles McAuliffe, 52, Fulton street, Rockland, Me.; Lieutenant William Sunsky, Company 197, CCC, Newburyport, Mass.; James Donahue, 25, New Britain, Ct.; Jacob Bernard, 62, Simpson, Pa.; Alec Dulkin, 41, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Peter Davidson, 16, New York City; Frank Simpson, New York City.

PLUNGES INTO RIVER

Edgecomb told police he swerved to avoid hitting an oncoming motorist on the Boston Post Road. The bus skidded, ran up onto a railroad trestle, and plunged into the river beneath.

The accident at Berlin likewise was caused by an oncoming motorist, Henry Ratte, the driver, told police.

This bus likewise was bound from New York to Boston. Ratte said he was blinded by lights of an oncoming car and lost control of the bus, which skidded and plunged over an embankment.

Seriously injured in this crash was Miss Helen Pollard, 25, of Amesbury, Mass. Doctors at New Britain Hospital said her chest was crushed.

Others hurt are Mrs. Lydia Daly of Amesbury, an aunt of Miss Pollard; Mrs. Daly's son, Warren, 3; Vincent Gaettano and Philip Mula, both of Brooklyn, N. Y.

In Milton, Joseph J. Buckley, 53, of Otis street, sustained a dislocated shoulder in a crash which occurred as he was driving his two daughters to Milton High School.

Also injured and taken to Milton Hospital was Mrs. Ralph Sarty, 24, of aBrtlett street, Randolph. She was riding with her husband in an auto which was in collision with that operated by Buckley.

Brookline Raid Bares New Vice

Brookline police today declared the vice ring driven out of that town a year ago has apparently renewed operations in the wealthy suburb.

The statement was made by acting Chief Joseph P. Mahoney, who led two raids in Naples road, Brookline, uncovering alleged evidence of a flourishing vice traffic.

He appeared in Brookline District Court against four women and two men arrested in the raids, and asked for a continuance of

Revere Racket Probe Reopens

Reopening of grand jury investigation of alleged gambling and vice rackets in Revere was announced by Attorney-General John S. Derham today.

The "blue ribbon" grand jury that indicted Mayor James M. O'Brien, Chief of Police Edward J. Tighe, Lieutenant Henry Tracy, Detective Willam C. Gibson and 48 others will be re-convened Wednesday to hear further evidence, Derham stated.

Further indictments against at least one high Revere city official and three members of the Revere police department are expected, Derham admitted.

Wednesday also is the day when Judge Frederick W. Fosdick is expected to set dates for trial of Mayor O'Brien, Chief Tighe, Tracy and Gibson and others, on indictments already returned against them.

Decision to reopen the investigation, Assistant Attorney-General Derham revealed, was reached over the week-end.

It followed receipt of a report from Sergeant Roymand Foley of the state police and State Trooper Ted Johnson, who, it was disclosed, have been investigating conditions in Revere ever since the shooting, last November, of Louis Gaeta precipitated the grand jury inquiry.

Attaches of the attorney-general's office said they expected Wednesday's move before the reconvened grand juryw ill result in "additional" indictments.

Bride Waits, Suit Looms

While Mrs. Virginia Jones Haskell, 15-year-old Lynn bride, still vainly waited for word from the young husband who was torn from her side by his parents five weeks ago, her father, Howard Jones, prepared today to take court action in her behalf.

The father said:

"My daughter has given the Haskell boy time enough to do what's right.

"She loves him and wants him back, but she hasn't had even a postcard from him.

"I've instructed my attorney to start non-support proceedings.

"The Haskells closed their Massachusetts avenue home here in Lynn and we were told Mrs. Haskell had taken 16-year-old Louis, my daughter's husband, out West with her.

"If we get a court judgment against the son, I guess Haskell, Sr., will have to do something to straighten out the situation."

Welkins Ring as All 4 Leaders End Campaigns

By ALFRED D. WHELTON

With a huge noon rally at Pemberton square and grand finales confined to Greater Boston tonight, the stirring race for the Democratic nomination for governor went into the home stretch today.

Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly and former Governor James M. Curley were the only ones of the four candidates to make their noon objectives the usual last-day-before-primary in the square outside of Suffolk courthouse.

Governor Hurley bided his time in preparation for a whirlwind tour of Greater Boston tonight as did former Congressman Richard M. Russell. Both were well recorded by radio during the day and early evening, however.

ALL FOUR CONFIDENT

Each of the candidates, whose contest has easily overshadowed all contests for the primary tomorrow, predicted "overwhelming victory" for himself and shooting hard at the candidacies of his rivals.

Former Governor Curley pointed to his rally crowd of 20,000 at Boston Garden last night and to the Boston Sunday Advertiser straw ballot that showed him a leader as indications that "dispel all doubt as to the outcome."

Lieutenant Governor Kelly warned the voters to wait for his windup rally in Boston Arena tonight before judging by attendance the candidate who is showing most strength.

Governor Hurley stated it is no longer a question of whether he will be nominated but by how large a plurality.

MYSTERY VOTE VITAL

Russell warned voters that a vote for any of the other three will mean sure victory for the Republicans at the November election.

Behind it all was that mystery voting element—the radio audience—the trend of which is bothering all the candidates no end.

Curley gave his supporters a fine round of entertainment before his wildly-acclaimed entrance into the North Station sports palace and his speech that was directed at Governor Hurley and Lieutenant-Governor Kelly.

"TOTAL DISREGARD"

Curley reviewed his term as governor in 1934 and 1935 and charged that Governor Hurley undid much of the work that he had started in the closing days of his administration.

"The Hurley record is one of total disregard of the leaders of his own party," Curley charged. "Hurley's only claim to the nomination is that it is customary to give a governor a second term. By the same token, I want mine."

In the course of his speech, he referred to that section of Kelly's 18-point program for open meetings of the governor's council and shouted:

"I will see to open meetings but that doesn't mean any more work for anybody."

At the Kelly rally, the lieutenant-governor staged a dramatic scene by being formally sworn, with right hand upraised, that he would carry out each of his campaign pledges.

Attorney Edward Ryan of Springfield administered the pledge before the crowd at Symphony Hall and the proceedings were carried into homes by radio.

"My opponents declare that I have no intention of carrying out my campaign pledges. That's why I take this oath," Kelly told his audience.

LABOR REPRESENTED

Labor was represented at both the Curley and Kelly rallies with Nicholas P. Morrissey, new president of the state branch, American Federation of Labor, occupying a box at the Curley affair and Charles A. Burns, president of the Boston Central Labor Union, presiding over the Kelly affair.

In his prepared speech, Kelly said Republicans were "praying" for nomination of either Curley or Hurley " as neither one would be strong enough to defeat any Republican nominee.

At the Hurley rally, presided over by Mayor John W. Lyons of Cambridge, the governor said in part:

"After two years of service as your governor, I defy any man to find a trace of scandal or corruption in my administration. Even my severest critic has not dared to challenge my integrity in public affairs.

In his endorsement of Russell, Dean Landis called for a "new deal" for Massachusetts and centered most of his attack upon the Hurley administration.

the cases until "further investigation."

The women are Misses Eleanor Barbara Morse, 26, of Bridge street, Bridgewater, and Rose LaFay, 27, and Mrs. Ruth Feiner, both of Naples road, and Miss Helen Harmes of Tremont street, South End.

All cases were continued for one week.

Five More Dead As Auto Crash Toll Mounts

Greater Boston auto crashes blamed on rain-blurred vision and slippery, leaf-strewn highways added new names to Massachusetts' motor vehicle casualty list today.

The total of deaths was increased by five and highway accidents in Mattapan, Newton, East Boston, Woburn and Milton sent a score of persons to hospitals with severe injuries.

Joseph Harrington, 20, of Richmond street, North Dartmouth, was killed when his machine skidded and struck a tree on Reed street, Dartmouth.

At Lowell, Alex Lamproukas, 28, of School street, Lowell, was killed by an automobile while crossing Pawtucket boulevard.

PLYMOUTH BOY KILLED

At Plymouth, Peter Frane, 12, was struck and killed while riding his bicycle on the King's highway.

At Worcester, two young men died in Worcester City Hospital to bring a total of four victims of an early morning crash in Leicester.

The latest victims were Francis Prendiville, 22, of Merrifield street, and William Doyle, 22, of Home street, both Worcester.

Mary Creaven, 17, of Ormond street, and Emma LeBlanc, 17, of Belmont street, both died soon after the crash.

2 HURT IN MATTAPAN

Collision of a truck and auto in Blue Hill, Mattapan, injured Max Lofshie, 60, of Walk Hill street, and David Hurlman, 58, of Sutton street, both of Mattapan. At City Hospital both were found to be suffering from concussion of the brain.

451,000 Ballots For--Somebody!

Ballots for tomorrow's primaries arrived at City Hall early this afternoon—considerably earlier in the day, in fact, than in any recent year.

There were 451,000 ballots delivered. Boston's registered vote is 334,000, but provision always is made for a surplus. The ballots and ballot boxes will remain under police guard in the offices of the Election Department until 5 a. m. tomorrow, when delivery to the polling places will begin.

Twenty-three trucks, each with a police sergeant and a representative of the election department aboard, will be used to convey the ballots to Boston's 22 wards. Two trucks will make deliveries to East Boston. The other wards will be serviced by one truck each.

McCulloch Runs On Stickers

President Roosevelt's reorganization bill is an issue in the 12th Congressional District, where Albert P. McCulloch, Chase street, Boston, an engneer, is seeking the Republican nomination for Congress on stickers.

McCulloch hopes to oppose Congressman John W. McCormack, Democrat, for re-election this Fall.

Two years ago, McCulloch received 36,000 votes, said to be the largest vote ever given a Republican candidate for Congress in the 12th District.

Miss Splan was found guilty of drunkenness and drunken driving and fined $50 by Judge Thomas H. Connelly. She paid.

Her roommate, Miss Gertrude Green, 33, arraigned with her on the drunkenness charge, was acquitted.

Tobin Presses Hub Legion Bid

By PAUL WHELTON

Boston Evening American Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19—Jumping all other state departments, Massachusetts Legionnaires had a well organized drive under way today for Boston as the convention city in 1940.

Hours before National Commander Daniel J. Doherty, Woburn, banged his gavel to open the convention officially today, paving the way for his stepping out of office, the campaign for Boston had opened.

The starting signal was fired by Mayor Maurice J. Tobin, on his arrival here aboard the Santa Fe's "Chief" with U. S. Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee.

"The Legion hasn't forgotten the good time it had at Boston in 1930," said the mayor, "and it will have even a better time in 1940."

The tall 37-year-old chief executive who was told several months ago by Cecil B. DeMille, famed producer and director, that he should be a movie actor, said he probably will visit the movie studios with Mrs. Tobin during the convention and return calls paid him in Boston by several of the stars.

Senator Walsh, who delivered the main address today at the opening session of the convention in Shrine Auditorium, struck an optimistic note on possible involvement of America in Europe's powder-keg situation.

"It is a grave situation, and one from which we must keep far removed," he said.

"I know we can keep out of it if we mind our own business and pursue a strict policy of neutrality.

BACKS NEUTRALITY

"If we do become involved—and I do not believe we should seriously contemplate such an unhappy event—it will be our own fault; through failure to maintain a strong, unmistakable and unquestioned attitude of neutrality.

"America's immediate action, in view of the foreign tinder box should be to develop our navy defenses to that point where there will be no question of our effectiveness in the event of war."

Present neutrality laws, he added, should be strengthened to provide "a definite legislative policy of neutrality without power left to any department of government to take a course unconsciously or unintentionally, that may draw us into war."

Slain Man's Body Found in Worcester Park

WORCESTER, Sept. 19—The body of a man, apparently murdered and robbed, was found on a hillside in East park, off Shewsbury street, here today.

Signs of a terrific struggle were found nearby. The man's coat and hat lay 50 feet up the hill from the body, and the victim's belt was 15 feet from the body.

All pockets of the victim's clothing were turned inside out.

Preliminary examination indicated he had died of a fractured skull.

The victim, unidentified, was apparently about 60 years old. The body was found by Nicholas Scavone, 60, of Risso street.

Gas Fumes Balk P. O. Robbers

An attempted safe robbery at the Greenfield postoffice revealed for the first time today that federal authorities are now using mustard gas to foil crackamen.

Greenfield police, who notified Chief Inspector John J. Breslin here of the unsuccessful robbery attempt, said the safe-breakers apparently fled before a cloud of mustard gas released when they knocked off the combination of the vault.

Chief Breslin said there were thousands of dollars in money orders and cash in the safe.

An expert was sent from Boston to open the damaged vault so the orders and cash would be available for business during the day.

So. End Man Held in $25,000

With three of his four victims on the danger list in City Hospital, Greenwood Rosser, South End Negro shoemaker who ran amok Saturday, was arraigned before Judge Joseph Riley in municipal court today, waived examination and was held to the superior court in bonds of $25,000.

He is charged with four counts of assault and battery with intent to murder; one count of assault to murder, and one count of unlawful possession of a pistol.

In City Hospital are, Mrs. Margaret Moore, Cumston place, South End, with two bullets in her body; Mrs. Amanda Peters, Cumston place, wounded six times, and Mrs. Moore's husband, Elmer, shot twice.

Mrs. Adelaide Piggott, Mrs. Moore's stepdaughter, another victim, was not seriously injured.

Marion Davies Hostess to Legion Women

Special to Boston Evening American

SANTA MONICA, Cal. Sept. 18—Hundreds of ex-service women will long remember what was for them the social highlight of the 1938 national American Legion convention—the official tea given for them by Miss Marion Davies.

The magnificent Santa Monica home of Miss Davies, appropriately early American in architecture, was at incomparable setting.

Plans had been made to entertain 500, but long ere the afternoon had passed easily 800 had been given the freedom of the many spacious rooms, had been graciously received by the hostess, had partaken of a delicious repast, had thrilled to meeting glamorous screen stars in person.

CHIC OUTFIT

Standing at the head of the receiving line, the hostess was beautiful in a chic afternoon outfit, a brilliant red hand-tucked waist with long black crepe de chine skirt.

The simplicity of her jewels—only a large diamond circle at the neck, her sweetness and natural charm, captivated all her guests.

During the course of the afternoon, Miss Davies was presented with an official ex-service women's citation on parchment from women legionnaires of the committee for the tea.

The receiving line was a delight to the visitors, for assisting were Mrs. Marion (Pat) Koenig, general chairman of all ex-service women's events for the 1938 national convention; Louella Parsons, Mrs. Frank Barham, Mrs. Harry Ruby, Mary Carlisle, Miss Ethel Davies and Rose Davies.

The "war" between the two schools of music will reach a climax after six or seven hours of dancing when the dancers, by their response to the rival bands, will decide whether swing or straight music has their favor.

ELIMINATIONS HELD

Vallee is the high priest of smooth dance music, Goodman the mahatma of swing.

All signs indicate a sell-out, with contenders and their backers coming from as far away as Providence, R. I.

Entrants in the finals are being decided in a series of preliminaries, or eliminations, technically known as "jams."

In one of the "jams," at the Rhode Island State Auditorium, with Cab Calloway's band playing, the crowd voted a tie, and two couples will come to the Garden the night of October 24.

They are Susan Northup, 18, Kingston road, Peacedale, R. I., and William Wooley, Surf Hotel, Narragansett Pier; Victoria Thibault, Winter street, Manville, R. I., and Daniel Bodnar, Clarke's court, Woonsocket, R. I.

OTHER DATES SET

Other "jams" and the bands that will play for the trials, include:

Nuttings-on-the-Charles, with Tommy Dorsey's band playing, tonight.

Black and Gold Ballroom, Worcester, with Danny Duggan, tomorrow night.

Club Mayfair, with Lew Bonick and his crowd, Wednesday night.

Ricker Gardens Ballroom, Roy Eldredge and his band, Thursday night.

Roseland State Ballroom, Boston, Roy Eldredge and his rhythm men, Friday night.

Rhode Island Auditorium, Providence, with "Swingin'" Sammy Kaye and orchestra, Saturday night.

Rhode Island Auditorium, Providence, with Chick Webb's gang, September 28.

Commodore Gardens, Lowell, and Glenn Miller's Orchestra, October 5.

Roxbury Memorial Hospital, annual College Club dance, October 5.

Cook's Butterfly Ballroom, Springfield, with Mal Hallet's orchestra, October 6.

WATCH FOR THE NEWS

There will be other "jams," and news of them will be published from time to time in the Boston Evening American and the Boston Sunday Advertiser. Watch for the latest news from the Jitterbug Front!

Jitterbugs who want further and more specific information should call Devonshire 8080.

Ask for Joe Rubin. He knows all the answers, for he's running the preliminaries.

Lehman Lashes Radicalism in Patriotic Talk

Special to Boston Evening American

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—Governor Herbert H. Lehman lashed out at Fascism, Communism and other un-American activities in an address before a large crowd gathered despite intermittent rain in Prospect Park, Brooklyn, in celebration of Constitution Day.

Many of the audience were members of veteran groups and among the other speakers were Attorney General John J. Bennett, and Milton Solomon, former deputy controller of New York.

"The struggle between democracy and dictatorship," said the governor, "may be long and bitter. But it is only under democracy that we can hope to have the blessings of religious and civil liberty and tolerance.

"Where democracy has weakened, persecution, religious intolerance and civil oppression have invariably raised their ugly heads . . . the only certain defense against dictatorship is militant democracy."

New-born ill will and intolerance followed the World War, he declared, and "almost overnight the work of centuries had been undone."

"Dictatorships use force when force is in their own interest," he said. "Dictatorships employ insidious propaganda at home and abroad. Democracies, on the other hand, must depend for their strength solely upon a deep-rooted and passionate devotion to liberty.

"If we should falter for an instant in our devotion to the principles on which this nation was built, democracy here would likewise be doomed.

"The greatest threat to democracy is lethargy and complacence."

Only Russia Can Save Czechs, Experts Believe

LONDON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Czechoslovakia could resist effectively the taking of her territory if aided by Russia, some observers here said today. The Little Republic in that event might become another Spain, an ideological battleground between the Nazi and the Communist state.

Without Russian aid, it is felt here, the Czechs would have little chance, since French and British assistance might be withheld unless the Anglo-French plan for ending the crisis is accepted.

Czechoslovakia consistently has insisted she will fight rather than give up her territory.

Reliable quarters said Franco-British agreement was reached here not to fight to preserve present-day Czechoslovakia, but to urge the republic to give over her Sudeten German territory to Hitler.

Britain and France would then propose that Germany, Italy, Poland, Hungary and Rumania join with them in a seven-power guarantee of the new and smaller Czechoslovakia.

This would mean cancellation of Czechoslovakia's present defensive alliances with Russia and France.

The Russian military agreement with the Czechs depends on the now waning French support, but it is felt in some quarters that Russia would help the Czechs anyway.

Fleeing Sudetens Shot Down

By GEORGE LANGWEIL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Prague, Sept. 19—The crack of rifle fire along the border and further repressive measures by the Czechoslovakian government today added new threats to Europe's tottering peace.

Several Sudeten Germans, trying to join their fellow-refugees in the Reich, were wounded as they crossed the German frontier.

British and French envoys to Prague today called on President Benes and formally notified him of the tentative plan formulated in London by Prime Minister Chamberlain and Premier Daladier to meet German demands.

Duce in New Crisis Talk

ROME, Sept. 19 (AP)—Premier Mussolini, keeping pace with swiftly moving events of the European crisis, let it be known today he would deliver an address tomorrow to be broadcast to Italy and foreign nations—his second in three days.

Il Duce spoke yesterday at Trieste, proposing plebiscites for all minorities in Czechoslovakia "which demand them"—virtual dismemberment of Czechoslovakia—as the only way to European peace.

He said "Italy's place is already chosen" in event of general war.

The announcement today said Mussolini would speak at 5:20 p. m. (12:20 p. m. Boston Time) at Udine, near the border of German Austria.

The announcement was made while Mussolini toured Julian Venetia, part of the territory won from Austro-Hungary in the World War. His speech at Trieste shaped Italian policy in the face of the Czechoslovak-German crisis.

Dinsmore's Jail Campaign

Wife Pawned Watch to Help

By CASPAR T. DORFMAN

Conducting a novel political campaign from his cell in Charles street jail, former Representative Robert Dinsmore of East Boston today revealed for the first time his methods and his hopes.

Although he has thus far served only a few months of a two-and-a-half-year sentence for contempt of court, in connection with an alleged jury fixing attempt, Dinsmore is seeking Democratic nomination as a candidate for the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

SEES WINNING CHANCE

Interviewed at the jail, he told a Boston Evening American reporter:

"I think I've a good chance to win in the primary tomorrow. There are 30 other candidates. Three will be nominated.

"My wife, Agnes, has been making speeches for me at rallies throughout the district. If I lose this fight, I guess she'll have to put the furniture in storage and send the kids, Bob, Jr. and Jean, to a home.

"I've managed to get out some campaign literature and have some circulars printed. Here's how I raised the money:

"My mother lent me $10, my wife raised $20 by pawning a wrist watch; two of my fellow inmates here contributed $6 for stamps; a Cambridge blind man I helped once put in $10 and two of my friends on the outside donated $35.

"That's $81 altogether. It's my total campaign expenditure."

Firebug Perils 50 Families in N. Y.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—A firebug that authorities believed to be an "alcoholic pyromanic" terrorized 50 families in six Brooklyn apartment houses early today, driving them into the streets in their night clothes.

The fires broke out within a space of 50 minutes in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn, all but one in rubbish in the basements. The sixth fire was in a baby carriage.

Hurley Host At Exposition

SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 19—Governor Hurley will be host today to New England governors at the Eastern States Exposition, New England's biggest show.

The annual event got under way yesterday when, despite the rain, 35,000 persons visited the fair grounds.

For the first time in history, the Massachusetts governor was not present because of the pressure of political campaigning. Among the governors present were Governor Francis P. Murphy of New Hampshire, Governor Wilbur L. Cross of Connecticut, Governor George D. Aiken of Vermont, Governor Richard C. McMullen of Delaware, and Governor Lewis O. Barrows of Maine.

Marshall Field 3rd Gets $100,000,000 on Sept. 28

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (INS)—Already several times a millionaire, Marshall Field, 3d, on September 28—his 45th anniversary—will inherit the accrued income from the estate of his grandfather, conservatively estimated at $100,000,000.

This and today's Herald and Examiner said.

"Such will be the birthday present of the grandson of the original Marshall Field, Chicago's great merchant prince—but it will not comprise his ultimate fortune," the paper added.

"When he is 50, if he lives, Marshall, 3d, will come into the entire Field fortune, believed to be upwards of half a billion, and rivalling some of the great fortunes of the world."

Marshall Field, 3d, owns several enormous cattle ranches in England and in this country. He has been married three times.

Field's present wife is the former Mrs. Ruth Pruyne Phipps of New York, who was married to and divorced by Ogden Phipps.

Rain to Continue Another 24 Hours

Rain storms which have deluged Boston and suburbs over the week-end are slated to continue for 24 hours longer, the weather man said today.

The official forecast calls for clearing skies tomorrow afternoon and a decrease in humidity as the wind veers to the west. Heaviest fall so far was Concord, where a precipitation of 4.42 inches since Saturday caused collapse of the dam at the Musketaquid Sportsmen's Club and flooding of nearby camps.

The weather bureau said the precipitation in the city for the past 24 hours was 1.35 inches.

Benes to Resign, Is Paris Report

PARIS, Sept. 19 (INS)—Despite denials from the Czech legation in London, reports persisted in diplomatic circles here today that the Czechoslovak government was "weakening" in the face of Anglo-French determination to partition the country to avert war.

Rumors in Berlin that President Edouard Benes planned to resign were heard here also. It was reported a Rightist Agrarian regime might succeed him to deal with the new situation.

9 KILLED IN BUS CRASH

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 19 (INS)—Nine persons were killed and five injured when a crowded passenger bus crashed through a bridge at Bermejillo, near Torreon, in the State of Coahuila.

Czechs Angry, Fearful of War

PRAGUE, Sept. 19 (AP)—Amid increasing resentment throughout the country, the Czechoslovak cabinet went into session today to consider the reported Anglo-French plan for settlement of Europe's crisis by handing the Sudeten areas over to Germany.

President Benes and his ministers started a close study of proposals in which it was believed the London and Paris governments were urging that Sudetenland be cut off and given to Germany.

Indignation over such a proposed solution of the crisis became widely evident.

From conferences begun at dawn came hints that the Prague government, although hard-pressed diplomatically, would stand firmly against territorial revision.

The governing committee of the Slovak Peoples' Party convened at Bratislava and although there was no official announcement on the discussions, it was expected the Slovak conferees would offer support dismemberment.

The proposals generally received an unfavorable reception in Prague. Crowds in the streets kept anxious vigil, watching newspapers and bulletin boards.

Increasing fears of war brought government consideration of new banking regulations and plans for protection of the currency. Banks were reluctant to transfer foreign funds, fearing exchanges would not be completed before outbreak of hostilities.

Authorities continued to confiscate editions of newspapers carrying news considered detrimental to the republic.

NAZI PLANES SIGHTED

Belated reports reaching Prague today said German warplanes had been sighted over Czechoslovak territory within the last two days.

One was said to have flown over Ebersdorf on Saturday. A second plane was reported to have swooped low over a radio station at Warnsdorf yesterday. It circled, then sped back to Germany.

The government was expected to issue a communique by the end of the day to outline its position of the Anglo-French proposals.

The official press bureau issued a statement saying the government was studying the Anglo-French decision to meet Hitler's demands.

BEG PEOPLE BE CALM

Citizens were advised to preserve calm to give the government effective evidence of support.

"The Anglo-French conclusions are being studied from the standpoint of vital interests throughout the country," said the inspired press bureau statement.

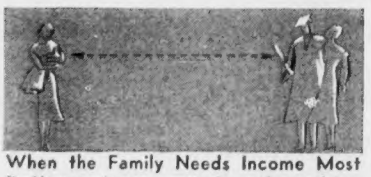
"These interests can be defended only if the people preserve calm and fullest confidence in the government.

"All sectors of the government, the president and representatives of all political elements are in constant contact with each other and with friendly states. Government sectors are approaching the problem from the viewpoint expressed by the president and the premier."

FROM CRADLE TO COLLEGE IT'S "MOTHER"—24 HOURS A DAY

YOU want your children to have a 24-hour MOTHER, at least until they are "on their own". Do you know that you can guarantee them a substantial monthly income from now until this period of greatest need is over? You can do it, even though your earnings are modest, through special John Hancock plans which provide maximum protection over the years when your family needs it most.

These plans have double-protection periods of 10, 15, or 20 years, during which maximum INCOME is provided. Should you not live to the end of those years when the children are growing up and wholly dependent upon you, a definite monthly income would be provided until they are capable of self-support. Then the full value of the policy would become payable. With this fund, mothers can be protected for life.



When the Family Needs Income Most

Should your earnings stop permanently, would your wife have to seek work to support herself and children? From babyhood through their 'teens, children need the 24-hour supervision that only a mother gives.

Kennedy Told What Britain Asks of U.S.

By WILLIAM HILLMAN

(Copyright, 1938, by International News Service)

LONDON, Sept. 19—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain will not make a final decision regarding the plan to be agreed upon with Chancellor Adolf Hitler without first sounding out the attitude of the United States.

During a long talk with American Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, Premier Chamberlain outlined fully the details of his conversation with Hitler and what the British government has in mind.

Kennedy, acting in the capacity of a diplomatic reporter, has been closer to the real facts than any other ambassador in Europe, keeping the United States government clearly informed.

Kennedy again visited Downing street today

Through its own sources the British government has taken a quiet sounding of the attitude of the State Department in Washington, and while understanding that the United States State Department is maintaining absolute neutrality, Premier Chamberlain wants the moral support of America before he makes any decision.

All excess is weakness, and jealousy is rather a complicated weakness. Usually we find signs of imagination, because jealousy is largely based upon suspicion and exaggerated ideas.

GOVERNOR CHAS. F. HURLEY

Two years ago I sought your support of my candidacy for Governor of Massachusetts. I shall never forget your generous response and subsequent endorsement. At that time I pledged myself to an honest, efficient, and humane administration.

Confident that I have kept faith with the people of Massachusetts, I appeal for a continuance of your support in my contest for re-election.

Charles F. Hurley

"Once again Governor Charles F. Hurley has demonstrated his friendly attitude towards the legislative program of organized labor. We express our sincere thanks and deep appreciation for what he has done for us."

From Joint Report (page 5), 53rd Annual Convention, Massachusetts Federation of Labor, August 1, 1938.

"Express hearty approval and deep appreciation of your message to legislature for repeal of employees' contribution to Unemployment Compensation Fund. On behalf of the workers of this Commonwealth let me thank you, both for the timeliness of your special message and the great good it seeks to accomplish for the wage earner."

From telegram sent to Governor Hurley by John F. Gatelee, President, Massachusetts State Federation of Labor.

Through his foresight and judgment and because of his interest in the workers of the Commonwealth, Governor Hurley in urging the repeal of the contribution of employees to the Unemployment Compensation Fund has in fact raised the pay of every worker in Massachusetts.

GOVERNOR HURLEY is the ONLY Democrat who can be elected GOVERNOR in NOVEMBER

WHY JAMES M. CURLEY WILL BE THE NOMINEE

Men are more familiar with the Peabody-Graves case than are the women of Massachusetts. I am convinced that women are entitled to the facts of this climax to years of effort to destroy James M. Curley politically to disgrace me and to humiliate my family.

My appeal to the voters and particularly to the women, is for fair play and justice. I am confident that their favorable consideration will be expressed in votes for my candidacy in the primary, Tuesday.

Fatherless at the age of 10 years, I started to assume responsibility and gain an education largely by evening courses. I realized, in early years, the injustice and inequalities of life and mapped out a course through which I hoped to lighten the burden of misery and misfortune of my fellow-man.

It was my privilege to give Boston the finest of hospitals, health units, beaches, parks, schools and libraries. I built every worth-while rapid transit facility, except the original subway, and thereby gave work to many thousands.

I incurred the enmity and hatred of those, who, while holding authority, placed wealth above human considerations. They have sought my elimination since 1909. In nearly every battle I have defeated them. They despised me because I had succeeded without a college education and because my family tree began and ended with a God-fearing, clean-living father who was a mail carrier.

Elected Governor, in 1934, I wrested still more concessions from these exploiters of the people. I lowered mortgage interest rates, gas and electric rates, automobile insurance rates, increased salaries of state employes; did what no other Governor has ever approached by placing 25,000 men at work as my contribution to unemployment relief. I aided, by cooperating with the Federal Government in providing employment for 125,000 more men and women. I sponsored 25 labor bills enacted in a single year and received national commendation from William Green, President American Federation of Labor.

I was the first Governor to espouse Social Justice and practice equality in appointments regardless of race, creed and color.

For four years I have been the victim of a craftily planned and well executed whispering campaign begun by vampire like enemies. They produced a confessed perjurer and wife deserter, Frederick H. Graves. He swore under oath that he did not know me and later before Justice Fenton in Superior Court swore that I was a participant with him in a conspiracy.

He awaits trial in Boston for perjury. His record will be revealed. I await the triumph of justice with confidence that in my vindication I will again deserve my enemies. They hate and despise me because James M. Curley has been one of the people's foremost champions of justice to the people.

'War in the Holy Land'

Persecution Horrors Bared

(Editor's Note: The "massacre" of Jews throughout the world since the current outburst of racial prejudice and antagonism has set a record for Jewry for all time, H. R. Knickerbocker, noted foreign correspondent of International News Service, reveals in the first article of his series "War in the Holy Land."

The following article, first in a series of twelve, tells the story of horrors in Europe which have sent thousands of Jews rushing to Palestine and the difficulties confronting them there.)

JERUSALEM—The Wandering Jew has today become one of the major problems of the Western World. There are five million of him, his women and children, in Europe today being tortured physically, morally and economically to the point where there remains only the choice of death, sudden or slow, or flight.

Seven thousand Jews have chosen suicide or have been killed in Austria alone since the Anschluss. In Germany, in the sinisterly sober words of the Jewish Agency's report to the Evian Conference, "since the census of 1933 to the end of 1937, about 110,000 Jews left Germany; besides there was a natural decrease of about 25,000."

Thus there have been 25,000 more Jewish deaths than births in Germany since the Nazi regime took over, and this number may be added to make a total of 32,000 Jews driven to death in the Greater German Reich in five years. Brought up to date, the figure would reach a minimum of 35,000.

Such a massacre sets a record for Jews for all time. The entire nation was murdered 40,000 on its return from the first captivity in 538 B. C.

By the number of dead may be added the pressure on the living, for Myron Taylor, chief American delegate to Evian, conservatively forecast an exodus from Germany during the next five years of at least 600,000 nearly all Jews.

50,000 IN ITALY

To the 3,275,000 Jews in Poland the 800,000 in Rumania, and the 240,000 in Hungary, all quivering under the lash of anti-Semitism, have been added the 50,000 Jews of Italy.

Whither can they flee? Evian proved that sympathy is plentiful but doors closed. America with its 4,600,000 Jews has given refuge to more of the oppressed race than any country in history but that record is not for Jewish immigration, for only 27,370 a year, were permitted compared with other countries, which is but a tiny fraction. A recent individual drama illuminates the vast tragedy of the race.

"Paul Egger, a 60-year-old Jewish engineer, of German nationality, was expelled from France after two years' stay without a passport.

"He was refused entry to Switzerland at Basle, so, crossing the French German pontoon bridge over the Rhine at Huningue, near Basle, at midnight, he sought entry to Germany, but was turned away. Coming back to the French shore, he was denied permission to return to France.

"Left helpless on the bridge, Egger in his despair jumped into the Rhine, but was picked up by the crew of a French barge.

"The Jewish community fitted him out with fresh clothes and succeeded in getting him an identity card so that he can stay in France now."

DESPERATE QUESTION

Facing another European war are standing close upon the heels of despair. Jews, driven through refusal by free lands to reach the outside world with the desperate question:

"Where can we go?"

Palestine is the one country on earth where the Jews have the right to go. Elsewhere they are accepted on sufferance to be liquidated as a favor to themselves and as a salve to the conscience of a world not wanting their willing to return to the Middle Ages.

To Palestine they have a right to go first because the British at the critical moment of the World War [illegible] and [illegible] war [illegible] in part by American Jewry, by [illegible] Secretary for Foreign Affairs [illegible] them formally that:

"His Majesty's government views with favor the establishment in Palestine of a National Home for the Jewish people and will use their best endeavors to facilitate the achievement of this object."

MORAL RIGHT

The [illegible] right [illegible] Palestine. But when the British [illegible] the Mandate over Palestine [illegible] the League of Nations [illegible] that "The Mandatory shall be responsible for placing the country under such political, administrative and economic conditions as will secure the establishment of the Jewish national home" [illegible] "The Administration of Palestine, while ensuring that the rights and position of other sections of the population are not prejudiced, shall facilitate Jewish immigration."

[illegible] [illegible] right [illegible] Jews [illegible] today they [illegible] But today [illegible] [illegible] Palestine [illegible] is barred by Arab bombs and bullets.

At this moment, when the Jews need a refuge more than ever since Ferdinand and Isabella decreed the decline of Spain by the expulsion of all their Jews in 1492, the exact place in the world which was promised them as their home and sealed with the international law of the League as their legal home is denied to them by force.

It is the force of terror, exercised by the Arabs through murder, assassination, bombing, shooting, kidnaping, pillage and all the violence of which armed bands are capable, against the Jews but also against the British government.

ARROGATE PROMISE

There are now 400,000 Jews in Palestine out of 1,000,000 population. The Grand Arabs have set as the minimum of the British duty to the Arabs a few thousand more than the Balfour declaration promised, that the Mandate surrender to them, and not oppose the terror and have forced the temporary cessation of the Jewish immigration and the purchase of land.

The Arabs ready want to destroy the Jews [illegible] and [illegible] want to prevent any more Jews from entering the country. Their terror so far has induced the British to decree that no more than 1000 Jews a month may enter.

Their terror has forced the stoppage of sales of land to the Jew although Jews pay higher prices for land in Palestine than Europe land ever brought in boom times.

Their terror has converted the Holy Land into the most hazardous country on earth [illegible] actually at war.

"BOON OF PEACE"

Their terror has brought seven British commissions of investigation to Palestine. The next to the last, under Lord Peel, decided the position was hopeless, advised the British government to throw up the sponge, admit defeat and partition the country between Jews and Arabs. This they opined would be the "one precious boon of peace."

Lodge Is Glad U. S. 'Isolated'

SALEM, Sept. 19—It's a good thing there's 3000 miles of ocean between us and Europe.

That was United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge's comment today upon returning to his office in Beverly after a month's trip abroad with Mrs. Lodge and their children.

Aside from that the senator refused to comment on the European situation.

"I made a promise to myself when I took office that I'd never contribute to any war scare," he declared. "These people who 'predict' this or 'predict' that amuse me.

"I am not gifted with second sight, and I don't believe anyone else is."

Declining to talk about Europe, Senator Lodge was free to comment in talking about Ireland. He visited Holland, France, Italy, Switzerland, Germany and Ireland. He spent a few days in Ireland and said with Dev [illegible]

"One of the things that struck me most forcibly," he related, "was the waiting room of De Valera's office. Aside from a table and some chairs, there are just two objects there—a framed copy of the Constitution of the United States, and a statue of Abraham Lincoln.

"I was much impressed by all I saw in Ireland. They are making a new Ireland, with sincere, capable men at the helm.

"Their studious and serious officials, their program for public health and education and agricultural development, all are impressive.

"I talked to many people just average citizens. They all appear to have a new faith in their government. The government has the confidence and faith of the people.

"DeValera himself is particularly interested in agricultural development. Ireland hopes to become the source of supply for England along many lines of farm products.

"The country itself, of course, is beautiful. It has always been beautiful, but now there is a new atmosphere of peace and contentment in the air that is striking."

5th Drive on Ebro Front Repulsed

HENDAYE, France, Sept. 19 (AP)—Spanish government dispatches reported today that a fifth insurgent effort to crash through the Ebro front had been repulsed.

Bulletins from Barcelona admitted an insurgent claim that government trenches had been captured, but said the lines had later been retaken. The drive was launched with a heavy bombardment by insurgent artillery and warplanes.

Vote to Continue N. Y. Truck Strike

NEW YORK Sept. 19 (INS)—About 2500 striking truckmen met today and voted to take no action towards settling their "sympathy" strike until after a conference of union leaders and employers with Mayor Newbold Morris at City Hall.

Abe Klein strike leader accused William Dewey president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs of bad faith in not arranging for a vote to sanction the strike.

The outlaw strikers, according to their agreement to permit movement of food and hospital supplies, ballots for tomorrow's primary election and newsprint but continued to pull out drivers of other trucks.

Picket lines were maintained at the Holland tunnel and at ferry houses, and trucks arriving from New Jersey were waved to a stop and the drivers urged to join the strike.

STAR ROLES in "What A Life" are played by Connie Nickerson, left, as Barbara Pearson, and by Henry Lascoe as Mr. Vecchitto. Eddie Bracken, right, Henry Aldrich in the play, will do same role in Hollywood. What players would you like to see do film roles of Barbara and Mr. Vecchitto?

Here is the first picture in the Boston Evening American's "What A Life" Contest, in which readers are given an opportunity to pick a cast for the motion picture version of the George Abbott comedy, "What a Life," now playing at the Wilbur Theater.

In this picture you see Eddie Bracken, who has already been selected to play the role of Henry Aldrich in the film. With Eddie you see two other characters, Barbara Pearson and Mr. Vecchitto.

All you have to do is decide which movie playrs could best fill these two roles and you do not have to see the play to enter this contest.

There are ten characters in all, and the Boston American will publish photographs of two of them each day this week through Friday.

The first prize is $25 in cash, the second, $15; and the third, $10. Then there are 25 pairs of orchestra seats for the stage play "What A Life," as the next 25 prizes.

Do not send in selections separately, but mail them in all together to the "What A Life" contest Editor; they must be in the mail not later than midnight on Saturday, September 24.

To help you make your decision here are character sketches of the two roles you are to cast today.

BARBARA PEARSON: About 16, bright, pretty, president of the Junior Class in High School. Likes Henry Aldrich because he makes her laugh, even though he is constantly in trouble in school.

MR. VECCHITTO: An Italian junk dealer, summoned to the High School principal's office to discuss his daughter. Speaks little English, and is very patient. Told to wait in another room until he is called, then forgotten, he stays all night

SALVATION OR SUICIDE?

The Editor Says:

—We are not interested in protecting that which is NOT OURS.

We are not protecting Czechoslovakia, the Mediterranean, China, Spanish "Loyalists" or "Rebels" or any country in Europe or Asia.

Here's what we have to protect, which it is our first, last and ONLY business:

One hundred and thirty million Americans.
Six per cent of the land area of the world.
Fifty per cent of the business activity of the world.
Fifty per cent of the gold reserve of the world.
Eleven per cent of the world's trade.
Forty per cent of the coal of the world.
Sixty per cent of the oil of the world.
Forty per cent of the cotton of the world.
Fifty per cent of the corn of the world.
Forty-one per cent of the steel of the world.
Thirty-six per cent of the oats of the world.
Fifty per cent of the copper of the world.
Sixty-four per cent of the sulphur of the world.
One hundred per cent of the helium gas of the world.
Thirty-eight per cent of the railroad mileage of the world.
Seventy-five per cent of the passenger automobiles of the world.
Fifty per cent of the telephones of the world.

They are only a few of our assets to be protected—WHICH EUROPE WANTS TO USE FOR HER OWN PURPOSES.

On the spiritual side, we have our LIBERTIES, our CONSTITUTION and our NATIVE CULTURE AND CIVILIZATION.

Let us protect these things by staying at home behind IMPREGNABLE sea, air and land defences.

This is OUR BUSINESS. This is our HERITAGE. These are our MOORINGS.

We SHALL NEVER trade our birthright for another mess of Europe!

ALL NEW ENGLAND rises to commend the "declaration of principles" adopted by the National Small Business Man's Association at its Pittsburgh convention.

As a large number of business men from this district played an important part in the convention they should be congratulated for their good sense. Here's the platform:

1—Government retirement from business competition with the citizen.

2—Taxes be levied for revenue only.

3—Congress repeal all laws delegating its power to other agencies.

4—Belief in social security, but insistence of a "pay-as-you-go policy."

5—Belief in the Wagner labor relations act, but urged amendment of the act to provide equal rights for employer and employe.

We should all make these ideals OUR OBJECTIVES.

THE SALES MEAN JOBS campaign is making good progress in New England.

The volume of business is pointing upward, particularly in department stores. Last week sales jumped 5.2 per cent over the 1937 figures for the corresponding period.

There should be no let up on the part of the general public to continue to aid the SALES MEAN JOBS drive.

JOBS for 2400 men. This is what a PWA award of $6,-[illegible] to the Metropolitan District Water Supply Commission means to Massachusetts workers. This sum will be expended on the Quabbin Reservoir water system, starting next month.

This for 18 months a large number of PWA workers will find steady employment.

The Human Side of the News

3000 Chickens Wear Goggles

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, King Features Synd., Inc.)

WARREN FLOYD HANNA, North Caldwell, N. J., poultry farmer, puts red isinglass goggles on his 3000 white Leghorn chickens to keep them from killing each other. It works nicely. The blessings of peace and good-will have settled down on the poultry yard.

Without goggles chickens are apt to peck any other chicken showing a flock of red from a scratch or trivial injury. It is a serious problem in the poultry business. But in the hens' new goggle eyed, rose colored world this incitement becomes invisible. There is peaceful industry and convivial chicking with no alarms, ultimatums, mobilization or blood letting.

PEOPLE of late years have long generations been warned against looking at the world through rose-colored spectacles. But philosophers before and after the mediaeval wrangles over "the reality of the concept," haven't been sure about much of anything in the overlapping zones of fact and illusion. It is quite possible that some men have died for Satrapasparianism, or something like that, than have given their lives for land or bread.

Shrewd politicians know there is a more powerful stimulus in myth than in any array of facts. People seem to be moved by what they think ought to be than by what is. Perhaps that is the keep-it-hay-in-the-donkey's-bridle that keeps us in vain along whether we are going anywhere in particular or not.

A pragmatic solution of today's world deadlock of reality and illusion obviously would be to kidnap the warlords and fasten red goggles on them. Mr. Hanna, the New Jersey chicken farmer, worked with a similar case history of sadism. The warmongers would be safe-d, viewing a world harmlessly incarnadined.

ALL politicians might be fitted with glasses with a plus sign on one lens and a minus sign on the other, to remind them constantly of an unbalanced budget. All of us might wear an optical cyclorama of a hundred-to-one shot winning with our $100 on him, and thus satisfied feel no inclination to gamble on the races.

In Aristotle's theory of "catharsis," we get rid of all our wickedness and foolishness by the sluice of dramatic illusion. And, of course, that's what's happening to those New Jersey hens.

WARREN HANNA PUTS GOGGLES ON HENS
Halts Killings in His Poultry Yard

The Society for the Psychological Study of Social Issues is making searching studies of the above origins and inducements of human behavior — illusory or factual and, under the leadership of Dr. Gardner Murphy, distinguished psychologist of Columbia University, they propose to blueprint a guide to a new social order, based on knowledge of why people behave in certain ways.

The late Jacques Loeb, studying the response of tiny organisms to various stimuli, also pondered the possibility of some day understanding the roots and incitements to human action. There may be a mother lode of useful knowledge to be uncovered there, but it is to be hoped that the war lords won't get hold of it. Perhaps it had better be kept in the hands of some ethnic cult.

'Bugs' Baer Says:

ONE ESSAY on how to eat corn on the cob was a sensation. We promised to follow it up with an article on how to throw away an artichoke.

THE COMMON artichoke, Cynara Scolymous, is actually a large thistle. The name is derived from the Italian artusocco or arciclocco or more modern carciofo. It comes through the Spanish from the Arabic al-kharshuf.

IN EATING an artichoke you place yourself in front of the thing, slightly to the left. That gives you cruising radius for the shedding of the vegetable feathers. It is always moulting season for an artichoke.

YOU PEEL an outside leaf from the fruit. You notice to your astonishment that it doesn't make any difference.

SO YOU DIP that leaf in melted butter and wipe your mouth with it. Then you toss it over your right shoulder. The next leaf is again dipped in butter. This time you scrub your teeth with it and toss it over your other shoulder. This keeps the balance of power even and you can add a bit of romance by saying with each leaf, "She loves me, she loves me not."

Six-Day Bicycle Race Lacks Old Thrills

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc., International Copyright and all other rights reserved.)

WE ATTENDED the opening of the six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden Sunday night just for old time's sake, but we got sleepy after watching it a couple of hours and went home and to bed.

We got to thinking as we were piling into the hay that if the six-day race is not what it used to be, neither are we, and who is?

We can remember when we would never leave the six-day race except for the briefest periods from the moment of it's inception until it was all over. If we had any sleeping to do, we would do it in our chair with our hands in our trousers pockets, a precaution against casual riffers.

That was in the days when St. Gauden's Diana stood poised on naked toe high o'er the turrets of the old Madison Square Garden down on Madison square and not two miles away where they have got Madison Square Garden now, and when the fist fighting in the barroom was always first class around 2 o'clock in the morning.

SOMEHOW we were never able to get greatly excited over the six-day race after the late Tex Rickard move it up town and started putting it on twice a year in the interests of greater dividends.

In the old garden it was a sort of annual fair for the underworld where the boys could go and do their wine drinking and fist fighting but when Tex Rickard took it uptown it became more civilized and even quite fashionable.

He completely discouraged the underworld customers from attending the race, thus depriving them of one of their few simple pleasures. The underworld gentlemen used to always take their ladies to the race at the old garden, partly to give the ladies a little entertainment but more because the ladies could carry the pistols in their then fashionable fur muffs.

You see, in those days "The Boff" was likely to be around running an inquiring hand over the persons of the gentlemen customers to see if they might be carrying any hardware but "The Boff" was himself a gentleman and would never have thought of running a hand over the persons of the ladies.

• • •

"THE BOFF" was, and is Mr. Johnny Broderick, one of the greatest and certainly one of the most picturesque of all the big town cops, who was then a member of what they called the strong arm with supervision over the underworlders. They titled Mr. Broderick "The Boff" because of the sound manner in which he could "boff" or hit with his fists.

A stranger to the race finds it inexplicable. However, it is mighty easy to become a fan and another reason we left early was for fear we might suddenly become wide awake and find ourselves bawling, "Come On, You Walthour," and then we would have been a goner for a week.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By ELSIE ROBINSON

WEDDING BELLS AND "BLESSED EVENT"

Should they rate a raise for the Blushing Bridegroom or the Prospective Papa?

There's a question Love's been dodging in more hush hush than you might guess.

Should a Husband's or for that matter, a Wife's domestic status have anything to do with his or her industrial value?

"IT CERTAINLY SHOULD," says 23-year-old KENNETH NELSON, of DIBOLL, TEXAS. "The old saying that 'two can live as cheaply as one' is definitely untrue. Yet when a young man has met the girl of his dreams he should be able to marry for his own good and his country's. BUT HOW CAN HE MARRY IF HE ISN'T MAKING ENOUGH SALARY TO KEEP HIMSELF MORE THAN JUST ALIVE?

"As it is, lots of young men hop it, and marry on a small income, AND FAIL TO MAKE ENDS MEET. Then we have another divorce. So I say, if a young man is a good worker, and asks a raise because he wants to get married, GIVE IT TO HIM.

"Kenneth Nelson, age 23, Diboll, Texas."

($10 PRIZE WINNER)

There's Man-Sized Economics in that letter. I'd like to print Some Big Boss' answer. Is the youngster right in thinking that a happier heart makes a bigger producer? YOU TELL!

Now here's a come-back to that leading rumpus-raiser of the early Fall season—"WHICH IS THE BETTER CHOICE FOR A YOUNG AMERICAN — A WHITE COLLAR POSITION OR A HICKORY SHIRT JOB?"

WHITE COLLAR EVERY TIME!" says S. K. Parkhurst, of Seattle, Washington.

"The White Collar person learns assurance, poise and sophistication at an early age; and, believe me, these traits ARE necessary in life.

"I DON'T BELIEVE IN THE PLAN THAT A PERSON MUST GET ACQUAINTED WITH THE OVERALLS BEFORE HE CAN REALLY BE WORTHY OF THE WHITE SUIT.

"S. K. Parkhurst, age 24, Seattle, Wash."

($10 PRIZE WINNER)

But young Bill Davis, of Martinez, Cal., votes for the Hickory Shirt.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"Spiritually the work-shirt job is a vent for the young man's excess energy—gives him new things to think about and learn each day.

"Most of the White Collar positions that are offered young men are stagnant positions. You have heard, 'He's going to start from the bottom and work up.' But does he? Most young men waste their best years in these positions until they get sent out into the field, where they start to learn and where they should have gone in the first place to learn the fundamentals and get experience.

"Bill Davis, Martinez, Cal."

($5 PRIZE WINNERS)

1—The writer of a letter in competition for one of the three weekly prizes (one of $10 each and one of $5) must be a young man or young woman.

2—The letter must be upon some subject of importance to American youth.

3—The letter must not exceed 500 words in length.

4—The writer must give his or her age and full name and address, and the name of each writer awarded a prize will be published.

5—To be a guide for one of the prizes awarded each Monday a letter must bear a postmark not later than noon of the preceding Saturday.

6—Miss Elsie Robinson is to be sole judge of the merits of letters submitted in the contest.

TAKES ACTIVE PART IN POLITICAL CAMPAIGN

Miss Mary Mahoney of North Andover, a Radcliffe junior, loves work

Girl About Town

by Mary Sullivan

THE LADIES are definitely in the political picture in the current ballot battle. Of course, they have had the vote for twenty years and women candidates are no news, but it is only recently that women have assumed importance in the active, behind-the-scenes party work.

Discounting the exceptional woman who took an interest in politics and ran for office, the women of the nation, up to now, have not received much credit for political intelligence when it was confined at the influence of females in politics.

Well, a trip around to the various headquarters, and a little talk with male party leaders, would give such gentlemen something to think about. For girls and women are working like Trojans sending out literature, making speeches, ringing doorbells and carrying on a telephone campaign and they can talk issues and platforms with the best of the boys.

The reasons advanced by the men in power for the enthusiasm of the ladies in campaigning are varied. Women are emotional they love a fight, women are idealistic—they love to work for a cause; women are exhibitionists- they like a chance to be important. And last but probably most fair, women of this generation realize that they are as competent to decide on their political opinions as men, and they have a down-to-earth, practical appreciation of the rewards of hard and faithful toil in the field.

Whatever the reason, you will hear this from every candidate for office: "I don't know how we got along without women in organization in the old days. They not only count- they do all the work there is."

LUCILE SWIFT, Boston society girl who won the "prettiest girl" title at the exclusive Casino in Magnolia a few nights ago, got a thrill out of a telephone call that came to the Casino the following day.

Mary Pickford, who heard about the Magnolia contest during a press party while she was in Boston called to ask who won the contest. Miss Pickford wanted to congratulate Miss Swift for America's Sweetheart got her start on her career when she won a beauty contest.

FOR THE BENEFIT of those who drive to New York occasionally, the new Merritt Parkway is a dream. You find it at Norwalk, and from there on you drive straight through on beautiful roads with no cross roads or traffic, to the Holland Tunnel, if you are going that far.

The new parkway takes you directly onto the Hutchinson River Parkway, the Cross Country Parkway and then the new Hendrik Hudson Drive, which goes all the way down by the Hudson and eliminates all the upper Gotham traffic.

THOUGHTS AT RANDOM: The fickleness of our great unwashed doesn't change with the progressing years. Dewey, hailed as a valiant crusader not more than a long minute ago, is hissed and jeered.

None of us will forget that night in the newsreel theater when they booed Lindbergh leaving the courtroom—and Roosevelt, the Man of the Hour, in 1932 and 1936, smiles genially from the screen amid a sputter of jeering dissonances.

Jimmy Walker, Jack Dempsey, ex-Governor Sulzer, the late Theodore Roosevelt, the late Admiral Dewey, the late Woodrow Wilson, the Duke of Windsor know, or knew, how quickly the tide of favor turns. It is the penalty for Page One fame.

THE PRESENT day gossip columns are the closest approach to the good old intimate Personals columns of the smaller gazettes of other days, when every little church function, house party, arrival in town, engagement and baptism, were chronicled. They were matter-of-fact items in those days, and those of us who contributed to them shunned intimate revelations such as a breach in the courtship of Sally Straw and Johnny Cornstalk, nor did we ever dare hint that Mrs. Willie Mainstreet was to be blessed with glorious motherhood. Today's columns are bolder.

THE HOTEL press departments, though, adhere to the homely formula and daily there arrive at my desk mimeographed communications that make me wish I weren't so stuck-up so that I could get on the telephone and call up Marie Dunn, of the home-town paper, and give her the information.

Thus, from the Waldorf-Astoria I learn that Mrs. Cole Porter, who has been visiting friends in Nantucket, has returned to her apartment and from the Warwick, I am advised that Mr. and Mrs. Craig Wood have just arrived from Rumson, New Jersey.

BRIEFLETS: Through whispering channels comes the heartening report that Eton Blue will be the favored shade for men of good dress this forthcoming season . . . With bated breath I await further details . . . A more leisurely re-reading of Irving Stone's biography of Jack London, Sailor on Horseback, confirms the impression I have always had that the novels of our great writers have first been lived in the full by the authors.

SOME DAY, when someone writes about the Merry Madmen of Manhattan, I plead that they consider my nominations, and these are they: Composer Oscar Levant, Novelist John O'Hara, Librettist Irving Caesar, Authors Charles MacArthur and Ben Hecht, Band-leader Richard Himber, Actor-Critic Robert Benchley and Publicist Richard Maney.

I have reserved a separate line for another and slightly unclassified Merry Madman. I mean, of course—and always—Tommy Manville.

Tidal Wave Scoop Brings Irene Bonus

CHAPTER 28

The prospective father had a fit when I showed him the letter of appointment. A woman who was going to have a baby had no business running around after stories, he thought. But he had the doctor's assurance that work never hurt anyone and that I'd be better off with some mental activity to interest me, now that I had housework and cooking licked.

He admitted, too, that flying from Hawaii for a wire service in the States is not as difficult as most foreign correspondence.

For one thing, life moves so placidly in Hawaii that "big" stories are rare. It isn't every day or every year that a Massie case breaks there, with murder almost as an inevitable sequel to an outrage on a young American naval officer's wife by native youths. Mostly, the work is routine, with emphasis on mail copy. This is the feature story written without a time deadline and welcome as "filler" copy on dull days in the States' papers which subscribe to the service.

Some days before I passed out to rent a lovely little house at the end of Waikiki avenue. The Pacific ocean stopped at the corner of Punahou and Waikiki avenue stopped there, too.

That was all. A private cabana, a screened lanai and there were two flights of steps up a lush terrace which had to be negotiated before one reached the house which the past office designated as 2402 Waikiki avenue.

TAKES HOME ON HILL

I knew I had to have regular exercise. I knew from my own personal experience how to exercise. So I rented the house and confirmed myself to climbing to its heights and back two and often three times a day. I cursed them repeatedly, particularly when the noon sun blazed down and I had trouble to lug home.

I look back on that period as a nightmare of homesickness. During as I rented my five-foot daughter, now fourteen, bursting with abundant hairy health and energy. That temporary discomfort was worth it. It did me good.

It had blessed privacy, too, that little house, a factor which enabled us to let our baby toast golden brown in the sun, secure and immune from admiring relatives and gurgling visitors. She got a head start in life on that Hawaiian hilltop, in an old cradle that had come 'round the Horn from New England and sheltered three generations of babies in one of Hawaii's pioneer families.

Next door was another blessed neighbor, Nell Hazen. She and her husband, Carl, were childless, and they adopted us. Nothing was too much trouble for these transplanted New Englanders to do in the name of friendship.

Days passed peacefully and uneventfully. One morning shopping in town, I telephoned "home" to Bert at the office.

"We've just had news from the 'Big Island' that Hilo has had a tidal wave," he told me. "That's all we've got so far."

Bert shouldn't have told me, for the Star-Bulletin is a member paper of the Associated Press.

But in his excitement over a big story, he forgot I was working for a rival news service.

I reached the Radio Corporation offices where I usually filed my messages. I went inside more from force of habit than anything else, and sat down. The man in charge was a stranger. He said good morning, asked what he could do for me, and I had an idea.

"I don't feel very well," I lied, with a well-simulated tremor in my voice.

He took a quick look at me and went white.

"Hadn't you better go home? Can't I call a cab for you?"

"Oh, no," I said. "I've got work to do. I've got to file a story on that tidal wave at Hilo."

"My God, woman, you can't do that here! You ought to be home. Where's your husband?"

"I've got to do it. And my husband's on the mainland," I fibbed.

He passed a shaking hand over his brow. I never could have got away with it if the regular man who knew me well had been on duty.

"I've got to get this story filed," I told him, interrupting myself for a groan and a clutch.

"Lady, you've got to get home!" he shouted in his excitement.

"I'll go just as soon as I file the story," I told him, looking him right in the eye. Then I moaned some more.

He came through as I hoped he would. Men certainly get the jitters when confronted by nature's most commonplace miracle.

NEWS OF 5 QUAKES

"Here, for God's sake," he said, shoving papers across the counter to me. "Here, take these and copy them and file your story and go home . . . please!"

The messages represented all the information he'd been receiving in the past half hour from everybody everywhere within sight or sound of the catastrophe. Some of it had been relayed by navy wireless. I shamelessly copied down everything of importance and I did it in a hurry.

I was sure the other correspondents didn't have all this material, for here was news of not one tidal wave, but five, resulting from a big earthquake at an undiscovered source.

The initial wave reached a height of six feet at Haleiwa, thirty miles from Honolulu, tearing out a section of the Oahu Railroad that circles the island, flooding many villages and damaging plantations. A half hour later the tidal wave sweep was felt with less intensity at the harbor of Honolulu. At Kahuli Bay, Maui, the first wave reached a height of twelve feet.

Two steamers and several lumber scows were washed to sea. The first wave struck the fishing fleet unawares. Several of the small boats were smashed to pieces and some of the fishermen were drowned. Property damage generally was put at half a million dollars.

I scribbled it all down hurriedly and when I had everything I wanted I borrowed my terrified friend's typewriter and collated the notes under a good fast lead.

Still play acting, I tore the paper out of the machine and showed him my R. T. P. authorization to send press rate collect.

"Here, send this stuff right away. Don't hold it up for anything," I told him, staggering slightly as I moved away and sat down.

"Now will you please go home, lady?" he implored.

"As soon as you've got that copy started I'll be going," I promised. "And I'd like a glass of water, please."

He got the water and he put the message on the wire. I watched it all go.

Then I left, groaning and staggering as he helped me into the taxi he had called. "Kapiolani Maternity Home," I told the driver in an extra loud voice. We tore around the corner. At a drug store I made him stop. "You may go now," I told him as I paid him off. "My husband's waiting for me here."

He didn't linger. I had a double chocolate soda and went home on the trolley.

I.N.S. cabled me that evening. They had had a clean beat and full coverage on the story. They were, Mr. Martin wrote, sending me a bonus. That was on February 3. On March 2 the check arrived. It was for $50 and it paid for the baby, Rene Lepe Leilani (lei-wreath of flowers; lani-heaven), who made her debut at ten minutes before midnight in a maternity hospital named for a Queen, the best C.O.D. I've ever received.

One day early in May, the Associated Press from Shanghai to Honolulu regarding the bandit activities in Shantung province, northern China, carried the following dispatch:

"Lloyd Lehrbas, of Pocatello, Idaho, Shanghai newspaperman, escaped from the bandits who raided the train at Linchen and returned today to Shanghai with the first eye-witness story of the incident."

Bert, as cable editor, routed the rest of the dispatch across his desk to a rewrite man who filled out the skeleton "cablese" with details.

DREAMER AWAKENING

Then he turned aside, pulled out a swinging desk arm holding his typewriter and punched out a by-line story telling Honolulans who this Lehrbas was. He reviewed his war record as an army aviator; told of his journalistic career in Chicago; and picked up paragraphs from Lehrbas' eye-witness tale to the AP man in Shanghai of the hardships suffered by white women passengers kidnaped from the "Blue Express."

Bert finished his story with a brief, succinct line:

'And the most thrilling thing I could do here in Honolulu was to write a headline on the story.'

Every man who has shared the adventures and misadventures of personal and professional life for seven years of peace with another man, and has had the bachelor-dinner-getting-for-marriage and husband-hating-for-fun, knows that the instant I read that sentence I made resolutions. I knew that the happy adventures of Hawaii was over. The decision was made up and the dreams of the "Pacific" of the Pacific would no longer fill the days made when he found contents.

I did what any smart wife would do in the circumstances. I beat him to the punch. That is, I shook him off my self and danced a new life before him to revive the bitter taste of formality.

There the hazards of infancy and matrimony are tripled, and it takes a lot of doing to get a baby through safely, and plenty more to pilot a young marriage. Limitless patience, understanding and mutual sacrifice are needed to keep a marriage afloat.

WORRIES OVER BABY

Shanghai is too exciting and too crowded with temptation to be a physical and personal adventure to be a cozy and secure home for a grass-roots of married life. It is a wild and prodigal hell on earth, positively physical, devouring and not the attempt.

Aware of all this, I was not greatly troubled by it. Somehow I had an abiding faith in our ability to make a go of our marriage. It was the threat to the infant's health that terrified me in the monumental matter of an excess of worriment about things that might happen and have to do.

Well, well," he said. "It's only three months to the end of our leave."

If it had been anyone else but Larry whose exciting escape from Chinese bandits had made world headlines, that might have been different. But he was Bert's pal.

It was a scoop of Larry's which had caused Bert to give up a good job in Chicago and ship out to the Philippines; it was Bert's war adventures the preceding spring in North China which had kept Larry on his toes waiting for a chance to be in the midst of something as personally exciting.

TELLS OF LARRY'S BLOT

That scoop of Larry's which had put in motion all the events of which this was the latest, occurred in 1921. He had broken the big story of the year.

Riding the Chicago "El" one day, he overheard a couple of men excitedly discussing a rejuvenation operation on one of their friends, a prominent Chicagoan who had challenged the approach of the amatory deadline by submitting to a surgical insertion of goat glands.

Larry trailed the pair he'd overheard and then he did a major job of sleuthing, for here was a story with a new twist, triply valuable because it was secret, new and involved a "big name."

He uncovered the fact that a certain Dr. Brinkley had recently arrived in Chicago from Kansas with an icebox full of slightly used but ostensibly potent goat glands, and that he had inserted them into not one, but 35 prominent Chicagoans, male, who could afford to pay the fancy fee for this alleged premium against senility.

Time Now To Immunize Children

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Come now the breath of fall is in the air. The haze hangs on the hills and breezes rustling through the trees make a dry sound which tells that the real spring is gone from the year.

And there are other signs. Department stores are trimming the young boys' floor and mothers are beginning to worry over wardrobes being prepared for the classroom. Teachers are keeping their eyes for another year of fresh faces making their appearance in the offing.

And to every mother it becomes a busy day and I think it is the most important function of a column like this to tell about the last matter of immunization for the period.

I refer in general to raise the [illegible] health rules. And [illegible] are invariably followed when instead of cutting it a course of prohibitions for diet and drugs and recommendations for exercise and sweater and porches, I recommend immunization of the body against certain diseases.

This is especially true of the very young. And to send a young child to school for the first time without immunization against diphtheria is to send the little one into a den of wild animals.

Contagious diseases flourish. It seems as though that is, of course, nothing more than a commonplace. And contagious diseases are especially likely to attack the very young. Also among the [illegible] the [illegible] the very young and the crowd and so get the [illegible]

ALL DEVELOP IMMUNITY

As time goes on we all develop thousands to the common diseases, sometimes by actually getting the disease itself (nearly every adult is immune to measles because nearly every adult had it when young) or by what is known as "contact" immunity. This term is explained by pointing out that a large group of human diseases are spread by carriers. Diphtheria is an example. Some people carry around diphtheria germs in the mouth or nose. They don't become infected in any other way and people associating with these people get small doses of the germs which they can kill off and gradually develop an immunity by contact.

School contacts create a great many of the natural immunities in the children. In any fourth or fifth grade over half the pupils would be found immune to diphtheria, although they never had it. I am referring to the days before the widespread use of immunization by toxoid.

Now if we want to create immunity to diphtheria before the dangers of exposure have begun to operate. We do not want to wait for contact immunity to develop. How it should be done will be described in an article later in the week.

WEAR RIGHT BRASSIERE

If the breasts are to remain normal it is important that the brassiere should be carefully and properly fitted. There must be enough room to permit deep breathing and full expansion of the chest, enough inclosure to give support to the breasts. Binding is likely to injure the delicate glands, should never be done.

Martha Raye, Bob Hope Head Cast for Film

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS

Motion Picture Editor International News Service

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 19 — If you are one of the DFs who think Martha Raye is a throwback to what she used to be and should stop her clowning in the screen and become a lady, you are in the minority.

Martha is on the stage now at the Paramount theater in New York and has the opening Legion nights applauded to the echo. Every evening sailors and Marines who don't know that the young man at the piano and Martha Raye is the David Rose. He goes on and on playing [illegible] and Martha sings [illegible] as long as possible.

Louella O. Parsons

Adolphe Zukor has to get a new movie for Martha and Bob Hope. "The Lady Is Charmed" and an interesting thing about it is that it is one of the few screen plays that will be put on the screen as it's written. That's because it is authored by a smart New Yorker who is over on the Para lot working on "The Great Adam Murder Case."

If Florence Rice had asked me I could have told her that the role opposite Robert Taylor in "Stand Up and Fight" was hers. I talked with Mervyn LeRoy who told me with great enthusiasm that Grantland's daughter was so good in the tests that he and Woody Van Dyke saw a big screen future for her. Florence has been in the "B" class and has never really had a chance to be anything outstanding.

"Yes, and I'll bring Wilma to the ceremony with a chain around her neck," the girl's mother interjected threateningly.

"Honest," he said when Miss

Boston After Dark

BY GEORGE HOLLAND

YOUNG THOMAS FORTUNE RYAN is working in the Boston office of a candidate for high office . . . The young man's recent romantic involvements have been smoothed out, and he is devoting himself to business—and politics . . . The hard-riding South American jockey, R. Donoso, has been the subject of investigation by race-track genealogists . . . Authentic sources, and they are not in any way connected with the press department of Rockingham Park, reveal that Donoso is the scion of a tremendously wealthy family and owner in his own right of a very large fortune . . .

George Holland

Another New England radio network is the vision of Charles Phelan, who is reported as having seceded from the local air-chain to which he has given his services for many years . . .

The Fox and Hounds Club has reopened for the season . . . In the hostess' reception room of the club's first floor has been set up a new form of betting . . . Patrons put up their guesswork with an entrance fee and the largest number of tickets wins. Intimate food for the guesswork . . . Lawrence Schwab, the producer who wrote "Lilac Time" and "The Magnificent Ambersons" and "Follow Thru" and "The Passing Show" and "The New Moon" had no luck at all in his comeback to the theater last week . . . A farce called "Once Upon a Night" was withdrawn after a first performance at Ford's to give the boys a chance to rehearse the new "Once Upon a Night" . . .

Charles Kay, of Lawrence Murphy's force has been signed to play the Crawford House . . . Lawrence Murphy is back at his office after a summer's rest . . . Ted Lewis will open at the Copley-Plaza with his band on Oct. 7 . . . Ted will play "When My Baby Smiles at Me" in one of his minor moods.

Once Over Lightly:

The Copley Square's Keyhole room will reopen a week from Tuesday . . . Harry Delmar, one of the highest paid men in the featured musical field in the legit era, is a Boston lad . . .

Vincent Lopez continued the winning streak he started at Saratoga while playing piano at the Ritz-Carlton nights and the races at Narragansett and Rockingham in the afternoons . . . Lopez won $18,000 from the New York bookies at Saratoga . . . He nicked the mutuel machines hereabouts to the tune of at least $5000, according to unofficial estimates . . .

The Tampa racetrack operation planned by Lou Smith is going to materialize this coming winter. Smith learned that a bill to be introduced that race meeting dates be submitted not later than July 1st . . .

One more note connected with the improvement of the Brunswick-bred Time Alone, which won the big race Saturday at Havre de Grace and Porter's Mite, which won the Champagne Stakes day at Belmont, both quartered at Narragansett the week at the past meeting . . . But neither horse went to the post . . . The pair are being acclaimed one as among the best two-year olds in training . . . Porter's Mite hung up a world's record for the six and a half furlongs distance Saturday.

Charlie Grimm will land positively in St. Louis as successor to Frank Frisch, your reporter is told . . . Al Forest, who has been playing the organ at the Salisbury Frolics, will talk business tomorrow with Paul Bromley, proprietor of the Brunswick's Marionette Room . . . Bromley thinks it would be novel to have a live musician playing between sets of the music provided by his recorded music and marionette musicians.

If El Morroco opens this year as a room with an orchestra, an effort will be made to lure Lanny Weeks as manager maestro . . . An American "Salzburg Festival" is planned for Dartmouth's historic campus next summer . . . Archie Blink, the fashion editor has bought a sapphire-tipped phonograph needle which she says will have a mileage of 2000 records . . .

A squad of officials headed by George Hyland, public works commissioner of Boston, inspected Spectacle Island in a quiet visit. Adolph Post, of the sanitation commission, was one of the party . . . The survey of the island was in line with Mayor Tobin's determination to make headway toward ridding Boston harbor of pollution . . .

'Snow White's' Black Day

BROCKTON, Sept. 19—Snow White was hurrying to New York today in an effort to overtake her seven dwarfs aboard a show train bound for Allentown, Pa.

She is not Walt Disney's Snow White, but dark-haired Lorraine Frank, 21, of South Slocum, Ontario. She played the role in a midway attraction at the Brockton Fair last week. She told police an ungallant person shoved her off, as the train left because she rejected his romantic attentions. Police took her to a hotel where guests, hearing of her plight, passed enough money to buy a ticket to New York.

'Tax Exempts' Reach Billions

WASHINGTON Sept 19 (INS)—Fully and a half billions of securities of federal, state, local, territorial and insular governments, or their agencies, outstanding in the hands of non-government owners June 30, 1937 were wholly or partly exempt from income tax, the Treasury Department revealed today in a study made in co-operation with the Bureau of the Census.

Fifteen billion 126 millions of bonds of such tax exempt kinds were held by governments, trust seeking funds, trades and investment funds, their agencies and the Federal Reserve Banks.

Annual interest charges of the tax exempt bonds held by the public amounted to $1,554,000,000.

Of the total issued $35,803,000,000 were U. S. government obligations, $10,547,000,000 obligations of federal agencies, $10,152,000,000 state and local government obligations and $186,000,000 territorial and insular government obligations.

Cotton Goods in Fair Demand

NEW YORK Sept 19 (AP)—Cotton goods markets were mod erately active today and prices held firm. Finished goods were in better demand, especially colored cottons and home furnishing items. Raw silk declined 1 to 2 cents as did rayon yarns and fabrics. Wool was quiet and steady. Wool goods markets were easy.

Sally Rand Gives Brockton an Eyeful

AMONG THE MANY OPTIONAL STUDIES which this year's Brockton Fair presented for public culture was some intensive glaring at the human form, feminine, as disclosed at 50c a peek in the little skin clinic conducted by Miss Sally Rand, the balloon dancer. Miss Rand offered samples of her nudity at so much per look, requiring the scholars to pay their tuition in advance, of course, lest they take a full conscientious peek and then declare the lesson punk.

AUSTEN LAKE

Not that one wishes to give the impression Miss Rand held still in her primal raw and allowed the students to peek ode worth. No! She jiggled her nearly silhouette in a sinuous whirl behind a translucent rubber bubble and, by ingenious writhings, contrived to conceal any anatomical intimacies at the exact instant when she seemed about to reveal them. This kept her [illegible] wondering whether, lest she should, or she should not, and the payment of the moment might be.

Being [illegible] educational matters the Brockton [illegible] appears to the prudence of the local police [illegible] Miss Rand be compelled to wear, anyway [illegible] of the community and the [illegible] being annoyed by too literal a contemplation of [illegible]. The [illegible] of education are not the ones to put pants on [illegible] against [illegible] skin rash, when in [illegible] seem to have found more [illegible]

Brockton Was Well Behaved

THEREIN BROCKTON SEEMS TO HAVE measured off a long stride since the days of the kootch-dancers of the touring carnivals and the eastern when burlesque houses, where the patrons—such anyway being usually for men only—stamped, yelled and exhaled uncouth remarks at the lady performers who danced in colored tights with abundant other clothing such as veils and vests. It was sometimes necessary for the masters of ceremonies at these palais-de-dance affairs to stop the music of a $10 phonograph and admonish the patrons that this was an exhibition for the lovers of terpsichorean art and that therefore a must refrain from vulgar remarks or throwing objects at the performer.

[illegible] a stir at Miss Rand was [illegible] a single style of blonde beauty, and [illegible] a studied hoke-jokey. Nor were [illegible] after her initial demonstration [illegible] own reaction was at all typical [illegible] as one might pass a general [illegible] appointments of the standard [illegible]

Miss Rand Explains

NOR TO THEIR CREDIT, DID the Brockton patrons emit any vulgar remarks at Miss Rand. The only curiosity evidenced seemed to be the old, common one which is noticed when adults find themselves present where immodest behavior is going on—one that is expressed by the familiar question, "Little girl, how did you happen to get into this life?"

[illegible] Miss Rand explain the happening not long ago before [illegible] and [illegible]. On that occasion of [illegible] she did not [illegible] her [illegible] choice. She wore an apple green [illegible] and [illegible] her straw curls sometimes [illegible] and sometimes giving a contralto stage [illegible] found herself overstocked with [illegible] and [illegible] she had contrived to move her [illegible] and [illegible] as one might pass a general [illegible] appointments of the standard [illegible]

She thought that, with her fans and bubbles, she really wore very little less, as a matter of business, than most of the ladies have been wearing on the beaches of New England these last few summers. If that be so, I don't think even the Brockton patrons would be impelled to ask a lady on the beach, "Little girl, how did you happen to get into this life?" She might turn out to be a highly respectable lady and her husband or boy friend might punch somebody on the nose.

Her Architecture Was Conventional

[illegible] A LITTLE presumptuous of Miss [illegible] a field where she embodies no innovations of the Brockton Fair, in their [illegible] have in some cases seemed to [illegible] the pyramid and the igloo, the architecture [illegible] through her balloon, proved [illegible] close to the old bulbous standard [illegible] Zeppelin or [illegible] the modernistic [illegible] Miss [illegible] in the second act of "Aphrodite" [illegible] was something like cake icing to [illegible] And even so he was raided and denounced by [illegible] John Roach Stratton, the militant fundamentalist.

But that was a dozen or more years ago. Today in Brockton the citizens would consider Mr. Gest's show prim, stuffy and pointless. A lady in a smear of cake icing is not undressed any more. Even a stark lady behind a rubber bubble is properly clothed now

Byron "Whizzer" White, All-America back from Colorado, now disporting for the Pittsburgh Pirates, will have to wait until tomorrow night before he can flash his nationally-famous football ability before Boston's football enthusiasts.

Heavy rains have made the Fenway Park gridiron a sea of mud and today the Shamrock officials decided to postpone tonight's contest until tomorrow night.

TONY DINATALE

WHIZZER WHITE

"Whizzer" White was the most sought after football star that has come out of the corn belt in a decade. He was the second highest [illegible] ever given by the Chicago Bears of the [illegible] Bears would a contract [illegible] for $15,000 on a [illegible] Whizzer turned a deaf ear to [illegible] entice him into the professional football racket. He has received a Rhodes scholarship and was to pass up the gridiron game to take up post graduate study. But the $15,000 was too tempting and Whizzer joined the Smoky City outfit.

Thousands of "fans" entitled will trek to Fenway Park tonight to watch the [illegible] Whizzer White [illegible] action on the gridiron and [illegible] enough hoof-and-mouth [illegible] to draw [illegible]

[illegible] years he played for Bost[illegible] Tony Di Natale made [illegible] hands of friends by his stellar performances on the gridiron.

Tony is a local boy, prepped at Belmont high before going to University Heights, where he captained the varsity a year ago. Due to the fact that the Eagles didn't play enough big time clubs during his days, Tony Di Natale is not as well known nationally as many gridsters, with inferior ability.

Tony DiNatale is one of the best competitors that ever faced any gridiron. He is always at his best when the heavy pressure is on. Moreover, he rates with the best kickers in football and is a field general of recognized ability.

There is no question but that Tony DiNatale has enough of a following in these parts to pay about half the freight of the ea[illegible] Shamrock venture.

So, tomorrow night at Fenway Park, while the Shamrocks are battling to down the Pittsburgh Pirates Tony Di Natale will be out to match the exploits of "Whizzer" White.

Three Teams Tie in N. Y. Race

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—The three teams of Bobby Hutchens, Gene Mehl and Lee De Lucca, and Kennedy, held the lead in New York's 24th International Six Day bike race at Madison Square Garden.

One lap behind were the teams of Ewald Wessel and George Stapp and Debarts and Rydell.

After twelve hours of wild jamming and lap sprints, there were 103 miles, 1 lap and 11 spills, with no serious injuries. Up until this time the leaders had covered 1,800 miles and 5 laps, against the record of 2,35 miles and 8 laps made by Mellon and J. Bedell in 1914.

Von Cramm Coming Here

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—It was reported on excellent authority at the national tennis championships today that an American promoter had returned from Germany has signed for Baron Gottfried von Cramm to come to America as soon as his passion term is finished this winter and to go on a pro tennis tour with Fred Perry, Ellsworth Vines and Don Budge.

No announcement is being made at this time, however pending the outcome of Europe's unsettled state.

The German star would, of course have to obtain permission from his government to make the trip.

Right now, the St. Louis Cardinals are the best club in the National League . . . And, if Frankie Frisch hadn't been released, they'd be giving the first division clubs something to worry about . . . Rain not only washed out yesterday's doubleheader between the Bees and the Reds but cost both clubs a wad of money . . . Jack McLaughlin, who lives at Riverdale St., Brighton, has signed a contract with the Bees. He's a right hand pitcher with plenty of "juice" on his fast ball and was recommended by his fellowtownsman, Hughie Mulcahy, of the Phillies . . . The Metropolis Country Club of White Plains, N. Whizzer Has $15,000 Spending Money ‡ McLennan Rated High in Racing

By JACK CONWAY

WHIZZER WHITE will start his four-year college course at Oxford in merry old England with $15,000 for spending money . . . This is the amount of salary the sensational White, who came to the Pittsburgh club of professional football from the University of Colorado, will receive for three months work.

Mr. Boston

White will enter Oxford, where he has won a Rhodes scholarship, in January . . . He will then be definitely through with professional football, and will take up some milder profession when he returns to this country with a lot of foreign degrees . . . I think White was practical in accepting his present football engagement . . . He will be able to pay his own personal expenses while in England, and will also get a better education as the result of the opportunities his money will enable him to secure.

The Whizzer will be able to attend the leading operas, dine at the swankiest tea rooms, purchase any classical books that may hit his fancy as a result of being able to pay his way with money earned by getting his nose rubbed on the gridiron and his body bruised by his opponent's attacks . . . I admire the Whizzer for being willing to take these hard knocks to get into the spot he has selected for himself in life.

There is the fairy book story of Gene Tunney, the former prize fighter, who earned $2,600,000 in the ring with the thought always in his mind that some day he was going to marry a beautiful lady who had her name in list of New York's "400," and that they were going to buy a home in the country with his money, and settle down to live happily . . . The dream of the young prize fighter who came up off a clerk's stool in a Tenth avenue office in New York to become heavyweight champion of the world came true . . . As you watch Whizzer White play football against the Shamrocks at Fenway Park tomorrow you can figure that the young athlete from out of the West also has lofty ambitions.

Charley McLennan Will Help Suffolk

CHARLES J. McLENNAN, who has been signed to act as Racing Secretary at Suffolk Downs for three years, will help the East Boston track . . . McLennan is generally regarded as one of the leading Racing Secretaries in the country . . . He will retain his position at Hialeah Park in Florida, at Keeneland in Kentucky and at Havre de Grace and Pimlico in Maryland, but has resigned his post as racing secretary at Washington Park in Chicago.

. . The announcement by Charles F. Adams, chairman of the board at Suffolk Downs, that McLennan would occupy the Suffolk post okays the exclusive story to this effect appearing in this column last Monday . . . This writer also was the first to publish the story that Gene Bury would be out as racing secretary at Suffolk Downs.

The story at the time was news even to Bury, and he asked me if I was sure I was right . . . I told him I was, and the appointment of McLennan supports the story 100 per cent . . . There will be several other important changes in the Suffolk Downs lineup before the opening of the 1939 racing season . . . The publicity department will not be involved in these shakeups . . . Floyd Bell has done a swell job as director of publicity at the East Boston track, and his work has met with the approval of the officers and members of the board of directors . . . There are others in the present Suffolk Downs picture who are not rated so highly by those in power.

Random Shots at Target

JOE GLASGOW, young, aggressive and a puncher, will give Lou Brouillard one of his hardest battles when they clash at the Garden on Friday night . . . Glasgow will benefit as a result of Brouillard's long layoff due to an injured ankle, and may be expected to be in there winging punches from the opening gong . . . Glasgow should set as fast pace as possible . . . Veteran boxers like Brouillard don't look so well when hurried by a reckless youngster who doesn't worry even if he is belted on the chin a few times.

Al McCoy, New England heavyweight champion, steps to bat against "Tiger" Warrenton of Nova Scotia in a ten-round bout at the Forum in Montreal tomorrow night . . . If McCoy wins he will be prepared to take on either John Henry Lewis, world's light heavyweight champion, or Buddy Knox in either Montreal or Boston . . . Matchmaker "Rip" Valenti of the Goodwin A. C. has been trying to get Lewis and Knox to sign for Garden bouts with McCoy.

The $400,584 mutuel handle at Rockingham Park on Saturday was pleasing to Lou Smith who has furnished top racing this year . . . Why wouldn't Rockingham Park be the ideal spot for the proposed match race between War Admiral, Seabiscuit and Stagehand? . . . I know Lou Smith and Tom McKoy with the able assistance of Tom Thorp, Billy Almy, Jr., and Herman Conkling would do everything possible to put the proposed clash of the thoroughbred kings over in grand style.

Reds' Pennant Bid Injured By Rain

Twin-Bill At Hive Cancelled

Bill McKechnie wasn't any too happy when he pulled his Cincinnati Reds out of Boston this afternoon.

The Sunday and Monday postponements of the two games scheduled with the Bees means that those games will not be played this season, and the Reds need every victory they can get their hands on to remain in the running for the pennant.

"We had a good chance when we came here," Bill ruminated this afternoon as he packed his grip, "but with the Pirates winning yesterday and more rain today, I'll admit our chances haven't improved over the week-end.

"However, we'll be in there swinging until the last man is out."

The Reds move on to New York, where they hope to make up some ground on the Pirates and Cubs against Bill Terry's slipping Giants.

Meanwhile the Bees themselves were grumbling at not getting a break in their first division drive.

They take on the Cards in single games tomorrow, Wednesday and Thursday, and the Cards right now are playing better ball than any other club in the league.

Fletcher Day, rained out Sunday at the Hive, will be held next Sunday when the Giants come here for a double-header.

"I've Got it" Bill Dickey wins "All" popularity catcher's poll.

Dickey Wins 'All' Poll

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 19—Bill Dickey of the world's champion Yankees is the most popular catcher in baseball.

This surprising climax in the voting to fill the backstop job on the mythical honor team in the All-American Baseball Popularity poll was announced today.

Dickey's nomination proved an upset and a surprise in that during the early tabulation of the fans' ballots, "Gabby" Hartnett of the Chicago Cubs and Ernie "Beezer" Lombardi of the Reds, appeared to have things sewed up between them.

It looked like a battle between the two National leaguers and it seemed certain that one of them would become the owner of the automobile donated by the Kellogg Cereal Company, sponsors of the nation-wide contest.

At that stage Dickey was making only a fair race. In the voting for other positions the early tabulation indicated the winner, but in the case of the New York catcher, there was a volume of late voting that soon pushed the Yankee receiver to the front.

ELMIRA LEADS

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—The Elmira Pioneers held a one game lead over the Hazleton Mountaineers today in the finals of the Eastern League Governors' Cup play-offs. The Pioneers defeated Hazleton 2 to 1 yesterday to chalk up their second win in the best out of seven series.

Sox, Chisox Twin Bill Called Off

CHICAGO, Sept. 19—Manager Joe Cronin moved his Red Sox squad over to St. Louis after his scheduled double-header with the Chicago White Sox was called off because of cold weather today.

This gives the Yawkey clan a chance to fatten up their batting average and standing mark at the expense of the lowly Browns.

The Red Sox have encountered little trouble humbling the Browns this season and should leave the St. Louis town with a firmer grip on second place in the American League standing. Jim Harris and Fritz Ostermueller, who were slated to hurt at Chicago, will draw the first two assignments tomorrow.

With second place money within their grasp, the Red Sox and especially Jimmy Foxx are hustling harder than ever. The popular first sacker has an added lure, for he aspires to win the American League batting championship which brings an additional $500 for top position.

Zannelli Faces Martin Tonight

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 19—Olneyville Johnny Martin will attempt to remove the Rhode Island welterweight crown from the raven thatch of Roughhouse Ralph Zannelli and Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, personally will second his white hope, Wild Bill Boyd, in the co-feature of Matchmaker Sam Price's all-star card of boxing at the R. I. Auditorium tonight.

Martin, a human buzzsaw whose last three starts were marked by a rather easy victory over Freddie Camuso and knockout triumphs over Paris Apice and Young Lefty, will tangle with Zannelli in the 10-round main bout.

Boyd, who received his early ring training in the U. S. Navy, will joust with the Brookline, Mass., butcher boy, Roy Kelley, in the eight-round semifinal.

Patty Berg Choice in Title Golf

CHICAGO, Sept. 19 (INS)—A young lady with a face full of freckles and an engaging smile—Miss Patty Berg of Minneapolis—held the attention as the qualifying round for the women's national golf championship opened here at the Westmoreland course here, this morning.

The defending champion is Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Greensboro, N. C., but according to the dope this is Patty's year.

Patty was runner-up for the crown in 1936 and 1937, and so far in 1938 the freckle-faced miss has won nine of the twelve tournaments in which she has competed. She is by far the midwest's outstanding woman golfer of the moment.

Although it's been the gossip all summer that Patty would walk off with the 1938 national women's meet, Miss Berg crowned the talk with action Saturday when in a practice round over the championship course she put together a neat 37—38—75, four strokes under women's par.

So even if she hadn't been the favorite anyway—which she was—Patty made it so in that little tryout.

Lest the impression be given that Patty will have a breeze, however, the field argues that conclusion.

TOUGH FIELD

In addition to Mrs. Page, who will be fighting to hold her title, there will be stars from all over the United States, as well as from Honolulu, South America, Canada and the British Isles—in all a galaxy of 128 talented divot diggers. These include Jean Bauer of Providence, R. I., who eliminated Mrs. Page in the quarterfinals of the women's north and south championship at Pinehurst; Jane Cothran of Greenville, N. C., north and south champ; Mrs. Edwin H. Vare, Jr., of Philadelphia, six times winner of the national title; Marion Miley of Lexington, Ky., Maureen Orcutt; Mrs. Opal Hill, and other leading Americans.

The foreign aggregation includes Mrs. A. C. Critchley, who appears most formidable of the British ladies and burned up international courses under her maiden name, Diana Fishwick. Dublin, Ireland, sends Mrs. J. E. Walker; Scotland sends Nan Baird, and Honolulu is represented by Maud Rice.

One "Baby" will be among the starters. She is 14-year-old Jeanne Cline of Bloomington, Ill., and local golf writers will not be surprised if this tot qualifies for match play. She handles an educated iron despite her handicap in years.

New 'Prexy' Watches Tufts Grid Squad in Workouts

President Leonard C. Carmichael of Tufts College made it one of his first duties, after assuming his new office last week, to visit the Tufts Oval where the Jumbo gridmen are training for their opener with Colby on October 1st at Waterville.

Dr. Carmichael was introduced to Head Coach Lew Manly by Guy Pierce, prominent Tufts alumnus, to assistant coaches "Fish Ellis" and Sike Rachdorf, and several of the players. He spoke with Coach Manly a few minutes on the prospects for the season, and left after wishing him the best of luck with his 1938 eleven.

Coach Lew Manly sends his 50 man squad into serious training this week, having put his players through the first week of the conditioning process with nothing more serious than a few blisters on their hands and feet.

The search for competent backs is still as keen as ever. Sophomore Burch Lorett of Medford, who starred at center on Chet Delano's winning yearling eleven last year is the latest recruit. Lorett has put on weight during the summer, and, though failing to stand out in any one department, seems the most likely candidate to fit into the backfield because of his natural ability to play an all-around game.

Scrimmages are scheduled for this week twice daily, and indications point to definite selections being made for the center, left tackle and fourth backfield berths, all of which are now a toss-up between several players.

Webbie Day is favored to hold his berth at center, with sophomore Ted Haselton sliding in at tackle. Letterman Ted Sheehan should fill the vacant backfield berth if he reports this week, but Elmer Fiorini is expected to hold the berth permanently otherwise.

Hockey League Bans Tie Games

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 19 (AP)—William F. Grant, president of the American Hockey Association, said today there will be no more tie games in league competition.

Grant said members of the association have voted to continue overtime play until one team wins the game. The extra periods will be 10-minute affairs with the provision that the first team scoring in an extra period wins the contest.

"I'm sure we'll have more open hockey," Grant said. "The teams will not leave the ice between periods, merely changing goals."

Association members represented St. Paul, Minneapolis, Tulsa, St. Louis, Kansas City and Wichita.

Joe Glasgow Out to K. O. Brouillard

"I'll win by a knockout," said Jolting Joe Glasgow, Quincy, explaining in detail just what he's going to do to Lou Brouillard when they clash for Lou's N. E. middleweight boxing title in one of the 10-frame feature bouts of the Goodwin A. C. show Friday night at the Boston Garden.

"It will develop into a question of who hits the hardest and I'm sure I can throw more damaging punches at Lou that he'll throw at me," said Glasgow after a workout at Kelley & Hayes gym.

Lou Brouillard

It seems Glasgow recalled vividly how he rocked Brouillard when Lou was at the top of his form and Glasgow was "hiring out" as a sparring mate in order to get some experience and learn a few tricks of the trade.

"Lou dropped me at that time as a sparring partner because I hit a little too hard for him. And I'm hitting harder than ever," Glasgow went on, showing not a trace of modesty. But then Glasgow will have something he'll need in there against the thumping veteran—confidence.

In the second 10-round main bout Honey Mellody, Charlestown, steps into a lightning performer in nifty Al Nettlow from Chicago who gave one nice exhibition here in a bout with Tommy Rawson.

George Salamone, East Boston, will meet John Sorenson in a six. Both are ex-amateur stars. Fred Cabral, Cambridge, and Jackie Lupo, North End, former N. E. amateur 147-pound champ, collide in a four. Jerry Zullo, Chelsea, will be in another four against an opponent yet to be named.

Meanwhile, Captain George E. T. Eyston, who regained the speed record Cobb held for a day, definitely set Wednesday for another run through the measured mile.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—The Yanks picked their own pockets today and discovered something they had in there all summer. It was the pennant. No hits, no runs, no contest.

▪ ▪ ▪

The Cubs and Pirates are still skidding neck-and-neck like two mules in one hame collar. Pittsburgh picked up a game due to a mixture of good playing, rain, the schedule and a little autmeg grated on top.

▪ ▪ ▪

Hank Greenberg is nursing history and may still elbow the great Ruth into the street. Hank got himself 52 and 53 on Saturday and is setting as pretty as a nurses' cap. Whether he does or whether he doesn't, Hank is entitled to the freedom of the port.

That Turness boy won the outdoor golfing business by blasting himself out of thirteen bunkers. He got the loving cup and a contract for digging a new subway from Oakmont, Pennsylvania, to Tidewater. Providing Judge Pecora doesn't throw it out of court.

▪ ▪ ▪

We made a slight mistake when we said the Yanks can take $297,977.00 a series game. It should have been $297,977.90. We had the measurements all right but the hot weather fooled us. Our figures are without the vest and the extra pair of pants.

▪ ▪ ▪

Applegate beat Cattle Crossing in the first collegiate football game of the season. Score, 86 to 42. The Cattle Crossing coach sent in his resignation on the five-yard line and it was accepted on the two.

▪ ▪ ▪

You aren't kidding the National League by suggesting they skim the cream off the league to play the Yanks. In a short series of seven games anything can happen. The most startling thing in the 1938 series of seven games will be if it goes past four.

▪ ▪ ▪

The American League house detectives for the series will be McGowan, Quinn, Piggy Ro and Basil. The National League hasn't named its truant officers yet.

▪ ▪ ▪

The season is almost down to the bottom of the dish and it's going to be tough for the Cubs to stop the Pirates from putting in their winter supply of coal.

▪ ▪ ▪

The English now hold the records for everything with a motor in it except the Singer electric sewing machine. One of our girls sewed that up last week.

▪ ▪ ▪

Campbell went 130 miles an hour on water and Eyston went six miles a minute on land with both of them being in the air all the way.

▪ ▪ ▪

Went up to Saratoga today and a fellow told us the boys handed the horses so many pills in August that now the nags stop at the Saratoga drugstores for curb service.

▪ ▪ ▪

Rain clinched the pennant for the Yanks when a game was washed out. It didn't make much difference as the cat was skinned anyway.

▪ ▪ ▪

Fellow out in Southern California kicks goals with an iron boot. There's another fellow out at Illinois who has been in so many barroom fights he won't kick the football until they put a hat on it.

NEWARK FLOPS

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Sept. 19 (INS)—The Newark Bears, champions of the International League, were only one game away from elimination in the Governor's Cup playoffs after the third place Rochester Red Wings had scored their third triumph in the series this afternoon by a 5 to 3 count.

Schoolboys Run True

Medford '11' Shows Power

Displaying power galore in practically every game, the Greater Boston schoolboys successfully launched the '38 gridiron season over the week-end as record opening day fans turned out to view their favorites perform.

As expected, no startling upsets were on the card, but a few of the elevens displayed unusual power in downing their opponents.

Leading this parade are Medford, Waltham, Haverhill and Gloucester. With the exception of Haverhill who trampled over little Dracut, the other trio of schools were expected to be given more opposition than they received.

Buzz Harvey's Saugus troup were a little disappointing in their debut with Medford high. Pregame conversation gave Saugus more than an even chance in toppling the new system that the new coach, Tom O'Connor has installed in the newly named "Mustangs," but with Bob Margarita leading the attack, the victims meteoric rise were temporarily halted.

Coach Jack Leary's Waltham outfit proved that their watches were set far ahead as they ran up a surprising three-touchdown victory over Rindge Tech. This victory is only a warning to their coming opponents.

GLOUCESTER GOOD

And then, the fishermen from out Gloucester way, came along to run roughshod over Oscar Gilman's Newburyport boys. By this one-sided victory, they also served warning to the oncoming encounters.

It took the Golden Tornado quite a while to put across their opening touchdown against Wakefield who, by no means, proved to be as soft a touch as many expected, and Warren McGuirk's boys wound up by only scoring twice the whole afternoon.

Melrose, the only schoolboy eleven to boast an undefeated aand untied slate in the state last year, was expected to have a fairly easy afternoon against Revere, but had all they could do in pushing across the only touchdown of the game in the second canto.

Arlington aand Boston College High also looked very impressive in romping over their opening day opponents.

It looks as though Fred Ostergren has pulled another trick out of his hat in the person of Buster Mills, the lad who ran wild against Winchester and tallied thrice. And in Ronald "Red" Sliney, the Eaglets also have a wonder.

The Yanks should give Jupiter Pluvius an assist for raining out the Red Sox yesterday—it merely clinched the pennant for the Ruppert rifles.

Lou Durocher

Emily (that's correct) Cody, a Syrian lightweight from Seattle, is making a hit in the south. Wait and see what happens when he and Sammy Magro (the No. 1 lightweight down that way) fight it out in Birmingham October 10.

There wasn't any doubt that Bill Dickey would be named catcher on the cereal company's all-star team, but one and all are glad to see Bill get that robin's egg blue sedan.

Three fellows who are rated millionaires were among the 500 players in the national semi-pro baseball tournament at Wichita this year.

If the Brooklyn football Dodgers don't adopt "Dixie" for a theme song this year, they ought to. They have "Ace" Parker of Duke, Ralph Kercheval of Kentucky, Jim Whatley and Joe Kilgrow of Alabama, Beattie Feathers of Tennessee, Bruiser Kinard of Mississippi U., Eddie Berlinski of North Carolina State and Jim Sivell of Auburn . . .

You can talk about your "Big Ten" and your "Ivy League" all you want to—many still contend the best football in the country is played in the Southwest Conference. It would be swell to have the champs of that league pitted against the Big Ten champs in a charity game.

Judge Landis is thinner . . . Everyone is worrying about a job for Frankie Frisch except Frankie Frisch. Brothers, that guy doesn't have to ponder. He's not only got it, but he's in demand . . .

Judge Landis

Attention, golfers: William H. Ford of Saratoga, N. Y., got hot on the 11th, 12th and 13th holes (where par is 4, 5, 3) and shot 2, 3, 2. Go out and try to beat that next Sunday.

A whole raft of Brooklyn fans think Leo Durocher should be named manager of the Dodgers—if Burleigh Grimes goes—but right now it looks more like Billy Herman or Charlie Dressen . . . New Yorkers are wondering who MacPhail would give for Herman.

The Giants might have been in the series, at that, if Hubbell and Bartell hadn't gone on the shelf . . .

Vince Barton, who hit five homers in six times up down in the Carolina League, once had a trial with the Cubs.

That's the league where wise old Connie Mack gets most of his good pitchers . . .

One reason why the Yanks are superior: They have 15 farm clubs . . . Fourteen of them finished one, two three in this year's flag races.

LOS ANGELES WINS

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 19 (AP) — The regulation Pacific Coast League baseball season ended yesterday with Los Angeles in first place by 3½ games.

The Shaughnessy playoffs begin Tuesday with Sacramento at Los Angeles and San Francisco at Seattle.

'Greatest Club,' Says McCarthy

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 19 (INS)—Joe McCarthy has broken down and confessed. He has admitted publicly that the 1938 New York Yankees are the best baseball team of all time.

McCarthy was throwing his pennant party in a hotel suite and the Yankees, forgetting the Sunday loss to the Browns after tearing into the refreshments, were in a singing mood.

After they were well tanned up they grabbed McCarthy, sat him up on top of a piano and in chorus roared: "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," with a sound effect that could be heard 10 blocks away. Then McCarthy gave his testimony.

"It's beet a great year," he said. "Now all we need is that third world's championship, and I have no doubt we will get it.

"I want to tell you fellows something. I've never said it until now, but I claim this is the greatest team I have ever managed.

"Furthermore, I consider it the the greatest baseball team ever put together."

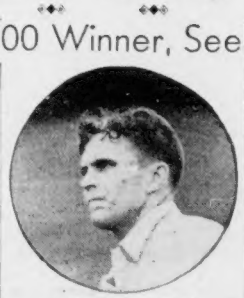
$100,000 Golf Bet

Ferebee, $30,000 Winner, Seeks Bigger Game

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19 (INS)—In Chicago, not long ago, J. Smith Ferebee won a Virginia plantation worth close to $30,000 by playing eight full rounds over the difficult Olympia Fields golf courses in 13 hours.

Now the 31-year-old Chicago broker is out to win $100,000 by playing 600 holes between Los Angeles and New York in four days—which Ferebee described today as "a breeze."

It was Ferebee's idea that having won the first wager, the plantation, he would give his very good friend, but caustic critic, Fred Tuerk, a chance to get his money back, with something to boot. Thus the aerial cross-country golf marathon idea was born.



J. SMITH FEREBEE

He will play 72 holes here next Sunday morning, will then speed by air to Phoenix, Ariz., where he will play 72 holes the same afternoon. The next day he will play 72 holes in Kansas City and 72 holes in St. Louis.

The third day's program calls for 72 holes in Milwaukee and 72 holes in Chicago. The fourth day he will play 72 holes in Philadelphia and 72 holes over the new World Fair course in New York City.

His golfing friend and financial backer, Reuben Trane, La Crosse, Wis., golfer and sportsman, has chartered a sleeper plane and is having it air-conditioned for the trip.
